DALTON'S SENTENCE 8 YEARS

SAN QUENTIN TERM THE PENALTY FOR HIS CRIME

Motion For New Trial Is Denied; No Appeal Will Be Taken by the Convicted Official

Former County Assessor Henry P. Dalton was this morning sentenced by Superior Judge Everett J. Brown to serve eight years in San Quentin Prison for having accepted a bribe of $5000 from the Spring Valley Water Company, in consideration for which he was to have reduced the corporation's assessments. This bribe was paid to him as the result of a trap in which the Spring Valley Water Company and District Attorney Donahue co-operated.

If Dalton should not be paroled, but should obtain all good credits possible, he would not have to serve longer than five years and four months. If the Governor consents he may apply for parole after having served one year of his term. It is a rule of the prison directors that a prisoner cannot be paroled until he has served one-half of his term, unless the Governor consents to a parole after a prisoner has served a year.

Dalton has the legal right of five days' stay before going to San Quentin, but it is understood that he will go to the penitentiary probably by Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

He will not take an appeal from the judgment pronounced against him by the court. His motion for a new trial today was denied by Judge Brown.

In passing sentence Judge Brown said that the District Attorney and his assistants had but done their duty in conducting the prosecution. He also expressed the belief that Dalton had asked Behan, secretary of the Spring Valley Water Company, for the bribe.

Almost blinded by the tears that streamed down his florid cheeks, and his large frame shaking with suppressed emotion, former County Assessor Henry P. Dalton this forenoon heard Judge Everett J. Brown pronounce judgment in the criminal department of the Superior Court that committed him to the penitentiary at San Quentin for a term of eight years. This penalty was imposed upon the prisoner following his conviction of the crime of asking for and accepting as an official of Alameda county a bribe of $5000 from the Spring Valley Water Company.

In the face of the disastrous culmination of Dalton's many years of official and political supremacy in the community, and the trying ordeal he passed through in connection with his arrest and prosecution as a bribe-taker, the disgraced man bore up remarkably today during the proceedings in connection with the sentence that was inflicted upon him.

The law gives Dalton five days in which to prepare for his departure to the penitentiary, and as he has several business mat-

COURT PROCEEDINGS WHEN DALTON WAS SENTENCED

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF ALAMEDA, DEPARTMENT NO. 5.

Hon. Everett J. Brown, Judge. The people of the state of California vs. Henry P. Dalton, No. 5007.

July 24, 1911. The Court. The people vs. Henry P. Dalton, No. 5007.

Mr. Fairall. We submit the motion for a new trial without argument.

The Court. The motion for a new trial may be denied. The defendant has been arraigned for sentence?

The Clerk. Yes, your honor.

The Court. Is there anything that either side desires to state before the court passes sentence? Before that, however, let the defendant be sworn.

Henry P. Dalton, defendant, sworn.

The Court. The legislature has provided that certain facts be ascertained before any defendant is sentenced upon a felony charge. I want to state to you, Henry Dalton, that there will be no prejudice against you whatever if you decline to answer any of these questions. You do not need to answer them. You can, if you desire, take your counsel's advice in that matter. I presume counsel has no objection to the questions being put.

Mr. Fairall. No, your honor.

The Court. You can state whether you desire to answer the questions.

Q. How old are you? A. 51.

Q. Did you have any occupation before you became councilman and assessor, that is learn any trade or follow any occupation? A. Yes.

Q. What was it? A. Foundryman.

Q. You were born in California? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And have lived here all your life? A. Yes.

Q. Now, is there anything you desire to say as to what caused you to commit the crime of which you have been convicted? A. No, sir.

The Court. Is there anything either side desires to state before the court passes sentence?

Mr. Fairall. No.

Mr. Donahue. No, your honor.

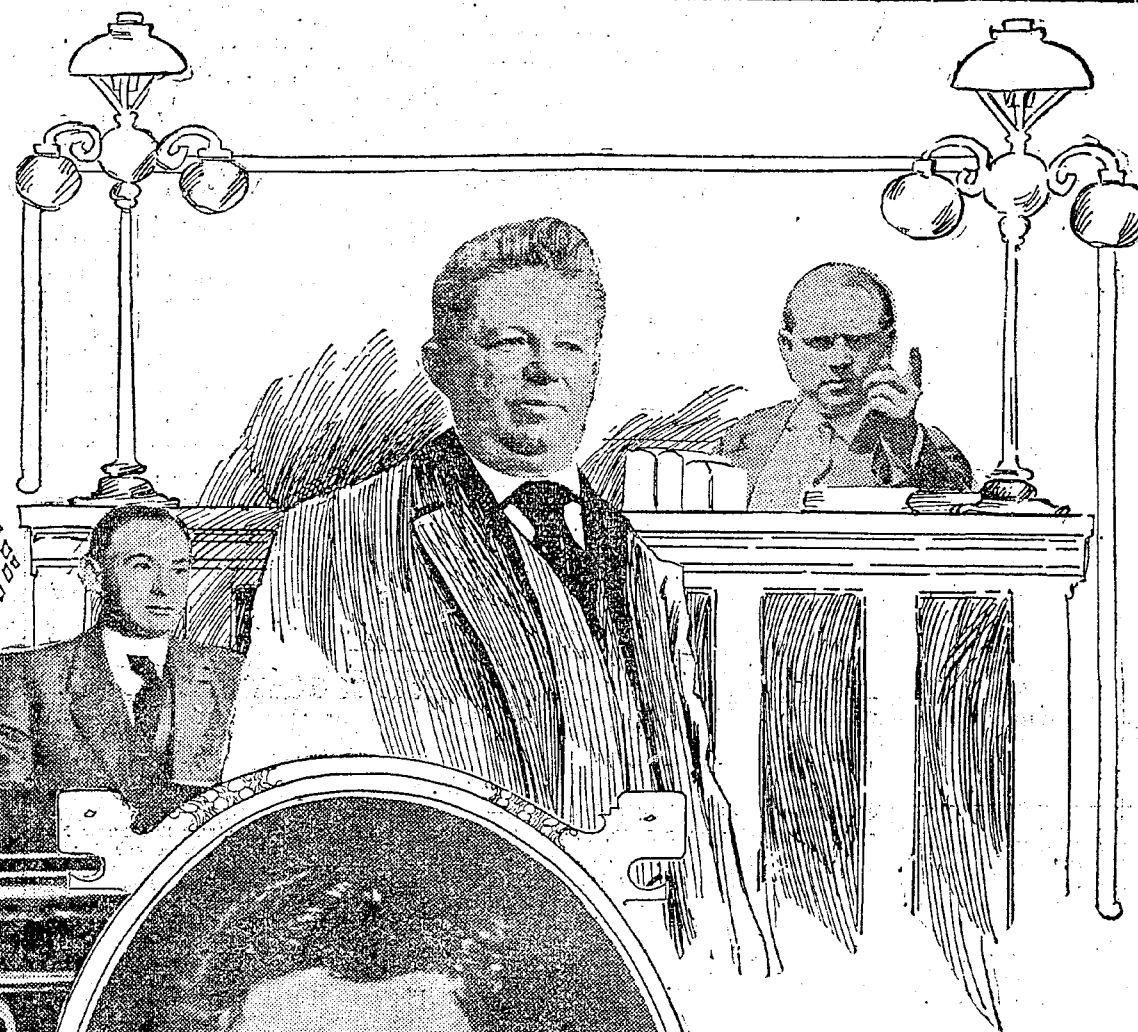

The Court. It is needless for me to state to you, Henry Dalton, the feeling, as far as the personality of the matter is concerned, that confronts me. A person occupying a judicial position must perform the service that is required of him in that position and the matter of personality should be left out. It is a very difficult task indeed, however, to pass sentence upon a man whom I have known, have known in the way you and I have known each other for such a long number of years.

Since the matter of your conviction

ASQUITH IS CALLED A REGICIDE

Turbulent Scenes Attend His Attempt to Speak on Veto Measure

"Keep King Out of Politics!" "Who Killed Him?" "You Did," Shout Opposition

LONDON, July 24.—Scenes of wild disorder marked the session of the House of Commons today. Half a dozen times the premier rose to move consideration of the House of Lords amendments to the parliamentary bill and each time he was hooted down by a din so terrific that the speaker had difficulty in making himself heard, as he appealed to both sides to observe parliamentary dictum. Asquith several times assailed to speak but was unable to prevail against the uproar and after trying vainly for three-quarters of an hour to get a hearing, cut short his projected speech and amid a hubbub, declared that if the Lords would not consent to restore the veto bill even with reasonable amendments, substantially to its original form, the government would be compelled to invoke the exercise of the royal prerogative for the creation of new peers.

No parliamentary event of modern times has so quickened the public pulse as the present political crisis arising from the veto bill, and anxiety to know the exact terms of Premier Asquith's ultimatum to the peers crowded the House and its galleries in a way not seen before for many years. The members of the lower chamber, usually so decorous, gave vent to their feelings by rising and cheering frantically and waving handkerchiefs as their respective leaders entered. There were some groans mingled with an occasional shout of "traitor" when Asquith made his appearance.

CHANT "TRAITOR"

The opening scenes of the historic session were among the stormiest ever witnessed in the House. As he rose to speak, the premier was encouraged by a roar of applause from the radical and Labor benches, but an answering volley of cheers came from the opposition, while a small group of standpatters busily chanted "traitor, traitor, traitor," until Speaker Lowther warned them to control themselves.

LORD CECIL ACTIVE.

Prominent among the disorderly ones was Lord Hugh Cecil, the conservative leader from Oxford University, who incessantly chanted "divide, divide, divide." This created fierce indignation on the radical side of the chamber from which the members appealed to the speaker to turn him out. Frederick E. Smith, Unionist, injected the claim that the Unionists were entitled to protest in this fashion if they thought the cabinet had degraded the political life of the country. This led to a renewal of the outbreak.

Meanwhile Premier Asquith stood at the table waiting a lull in the storm. His first word, however, was a signal for another cyclone and for twenty minutes the premier stood unable to get in a word. Cries of hurrah for Redmond, the real leader, suddenly broke out from the conservative benches. "We will listen to Redmond," they added.

"The British Aristocracy" was the scornful reply of the radicals. "Look

He brought the train to a stop within fifteen feet of the obstruction. A tie had been planted in a hole dug between the rails, the end tilted toward the approaching locomotive. It had been firmly spiked down between the ties and then securely tied by ropes.

TWELFTH STREET KEY ROUTE CARS

Mayor Frank K. Mott Sends Reply to Irving Kahn and Others

The following communication is self-explanatory:

"Oakland, Cal., July 22, 1911.
"Messrs. Irving Kahn of Kahn Bros., E. S. Page of the Bacon estate, A. S. Salinger and others: Gentlemen—Your communication of June 29, addressed to mayor and board of public works, was referred to the present administration for investigation and action.

"As soon as possible after organization of the new government the matter was given consideration and after conference with the city attorney it was determined to notify the Oakland Traction Company that the special service they are rendering on Twelfth street between Broadway and Union streets must be strictly in accordance with the terms of the franchise granted by the city of Oakland for the conduct of a street railway along and upon that street. To do this they are required to operate their cars so as they may be used by local traffic, in the same manner as the regular service upon this street, that is, to stop at each and every crossing to take on or discharge passengers, when in good faith required, and to discard the signs indicating that only passengers via the Key Route for San Francisco are to be served. In response to the notification the Oakland Traction Company while maintaining that they have the right under the franchise to operate a special service which does not interfere with the regular service, nevertheless have agreed to abide by the demand of the city authorities and to operate all the cars on the Twelfth line as local cars for the accommodation of local passengers, stopping at all crossings for the receiving or discharging of passengers. They also agree to discontinue the present signs indicating that 'passengers for San Francisco only' are allowed to board.

"With reference to the running of two cars coupled together, will state that the city attorney advises me that there is no law that prohibits this and that under the franchise they can operate a car and trailer or two coupled together, but that, however, these cars must be run as a street railway service for the fullest accommodation of local passengers.

"Yours very truly,

"FRANK K. MOTT."

LOST WATCH FOUND, BUT YET MISSING

Timepiece Picked Up and Turned Over to Wrong
Party

While in a crowd at Idora park last night Mrs. A. D. Clement of 1001 Pine street, in San Francisco, dropped a watch valued at $40. Discovering her loss she had a search made for the missing timepiece and G. Albin of 1521 Folsom street was at last found to know something about it.

"I picked up a gold watch answering the description," said Albin. "Seeing a lady nearby who might have dropped it, I showed her the watch and explained that I had picked it up. She seemed a little surprised, but without apparent hesitation took the watch and thanked me for it. I afterwards saw her going to wait the telephone avenue exit. I think I should recognize her if I saw her again."

Mrs. Clement is still minus her timepiece.

S.S.S. PERMANENTLY HEALS SORES AND ULCERS

No matter in what way an old sore or ulcer first commenced, whether from a wound, cut, or bruise, or from the ulceration of a wart, pimple or mole, or even if it came without apparent reason, the fact that it does not heal shows that bad blood is responsible for the place. While the circulation remains impure the nerves and tissues of the flesh around the place are constantly being fed with unhealthy matter and the fibres are thus prevented from knitting together and healing. Purify the blood and the place MUST heal, its cause having been removed. S.S.S. cures old sores and chronic ulcers because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It removes from the circulation every impurity, and so enriches the blood that it nourishes the tender, sensitive flesh, and causes a knitting together of all fibrous tissue and thus heals the place. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free. S.S.S. is for sale at drug stores.

MEET AT GRAVE OF A RELATIVE

Father Aged 72, Son Aged 52, Reunited After Years of Separation

PITTSBURG, July 24.—William Walker, 52 years old, a farmer of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., yesterday met his father, John A. Walker, 72 years old, of La Porte, Ind., for the first time in his life to his knowledge, at the bier of Clark Walker, brother of John A.

More than 31 years ago John A. Walker left Mt. Pleasant, leaving behind his young wife and a 4-months-old son. He went to La Porte, Ind., and for more than a quarter of a century, it is said, was police marshal of that city. He remarried, as did his wife, who mourned him as dead.

Learning of the death of his brother, Walker arrived at Mt. Pleasant yesterday from the West. He talked with his son for some time at the side of the casket before their identity was established. The father greeted the son warmly, told of his life in the West, but refused to say why he deserted his family.

China

FRUITVALE, July 24.—A. J. Miller, secretary of the St. Francis Benevolent Society, has received an appeal for aid from Rev. Father P. Wolfgang, O. F. M., a Franciscan missionary in China. DALTON HEARS THE WORDS THAT DOOM HIM TO THE PENITENTIARY

Convicted Official Will Not Take an Appeal and Will in Few Days Begin Serving His Sentence at San Quentin

ters to straighten out before he enters upon his term, in all probability he will not enter San Quentin before Wednesday or Thursday. There is a possibility of his leaving the county jail tomorrow, but this is hardly probable. Dalton's case will not be appealed.

Many Spectators

The sentencing of Dalton was the only business transacted in the criminal department of the Superior Court this forenoon. In anticipation of the last judicial act in the prosecution of the former County Assessor, the courtroom was filled with spectators. Dalton was brought into court a few minutes before 10 o'clock by Deputy Sheriff McCarthy, who is also bailiff of the criminal department, and he took a seat beside the long table inside the bar. The only member of his family present to greet him and say a word of encouragement and sympathy was his brother, Frank N. Dalton. One of the convicted man's bondsmen, E. A. Young, a butcher and former president of the Merchants' Exchange, was in attendance and chatted a few minutes with the prisoner while he was waiting for court to convene.

Motion for New Trial

When Judge Brown ascended the bench the court bailiff called for order, and immediately thereafter his honor announced Dalton's case. Attorneys Charles H. Fairall and Gehring & Wyman of counsel for the prisoner were present, while District Attorney William H. Donahue and Assistant District Attorney W. H. L. Hynes were on hand to look after the prosecution's interests. The defense had several days before filed a motion for a new trial on the grounds that the court misdirected the jury in matters of law, that the court erred in the decisions of questions of law arising during the course of the trial; that the verdict was contrary to law, and that the verdict was contrary to the evidence, so this was the first thing to be disposed of in the proceedings, and when Judge Brown called the case Attorney Fairall said:

"The defense submits its motion for a new trial without argument."

"The prosecution rests," said Assistant District Attorney Hynes.

"The motion for a new trial may be denied," ruled the court.

With this preliminary disposed of Judge Brown ordered Dalton to stand up before him, and the prisoner, leaving his chair, advanced to the bench and stood between Attorneys Fairall and Wyman.

Judge Brown then informed the prisoner that the law required that he be asked certain questions which he was privileged to answer or not, as he saw fit, and that if he refused to answer his case would not be prejudiced in the least in the eyes of the court. Then learning from the clerk of the court that Dalton had already gone through the formality of arraignment for sentence, Judge Brown asked the prisoner his age.

Gives His Age

"I am 51 years old," replied Dalton. Answering other questions, Dalton said that before he became assessor of Alameda county something like seventeen years ago he followed the occupation of foundryman. He said that he was born in California and had lived in the State all his life.

"Have you anything to say," the court asked, "why you committed this crime?"

"No, sir," replied the prisoner. Turning to counsel for Dalton, Judge Brown asked if they desired to make any statement in behalf of their client before judgment was pronounced, to which Attorney Fairall replied that there was nothing more to be said.

Addressing the District Attorney, Judge Brown repeated the question, and that official replied in the negative. Judge Brown then proceeded with the sentence. He said that so far as the personality of his present position was concerned, a person in a judicial position had to perform service, however trying and difficult the task might be. It was difficult, Judge Brown said, to pronounce judgment upon a man whom he had known so well for so many years, but that all this feeling had to be suppressed.

Pleas for Mercy

Judge Brown referred to the fact that since Dalton's conviction several persons had gone to him and attempted to speak to him about the case. Not one of these parties had anything to urge against the prisoner, the court said, but all spoke in the prisoner's behalf. He said that two or three members of the jury who rendered the verdict against Dalton had called on him and stated that had the jury thought of it he was sure it would have recommended the prisoner to the mercy of the court. Other persons attempted to prevail upon the court, Judge Brown said, to be lenient with the prisoner, but to all such overtures it was necessary and proper to turn a deaf ear.

Judge Brown referred to the many bitter attacks that had been made upon Dalton during political campaigns, and said in this connection that during his long public career Dalton made many warm friends and some enemies. Regarding all those past matters, however, said Judge Brown, the court knew absolutely nothing, and furthermore he said that there was nothing that had come to him that could have in any way prejudiced him in the trial of the prisoner. Then the court continued:

Must Suffer Keenly

"Regarding any remarks that I may make here in the matter of passing sentence, I want to say to you, Henry Dalton, that I know that no punishment, no matter what the punishment, can ever be inflicted upon you that can be anywhere near as great as the punishment that has been inflicted upon you by the verdict of the jury finding you guilty of a felony. A man who has occupied the prominent position, the position of esteem, love and friendship in the community that you have occupied, must necessarily suffer keenly the disgrace and punishment for your wrongdoing."

Judge Brown then took occasion to give warning that grafting in public office in Alameda county was a dangerous proposition. He said in this connection that the system of punishment under criminal procedure has a tendency to deter punishment in such cases.

"This procedure has not been a great success," declared the judge, "and I believe the time will come when we will have a better and more effective way of dealing with such matters. However, the way has been provided for by the statutes, and if there was ever an occasion where a court ought to take the defects of the law into consideration it is in this city. There has been for a number of years disclosure after disclosure of corruption in public office. The word 'graft' has become a word that is heard on every occasion, and under our present ent procedure and all conditions as they exist at the present time there is no better and no stronger way to prevent corruption in office than to deal severely with it when it is discovered."

Was Perjury

Judge Brown said that Dalton was a public official, with a strong following; that he had been believed in by the people of Alameda county, all of which made his crime more reprehensible. The court said that the story about receiving the $5000 as a loan, that Dalton told on the witness stand, was perjury and made the prisoner's crime all the more serious. Judge Brown said Dalton was a born leader of men, possessed a strong personality and will power and that it was to be regretted that a career that could have been so forceful and full of good had turned out as badly as it did.

"When you come out of the penitentiary," continued the court, "notwithstanding the prejudice which exists in society as constituted today against a man who has served a term in prison, I believe you will have considerable chance to regain yourself and accomplish something good in life."

No Appeal Possible

Judge Brown then pronounced judgment, and no notice of appeal was entered, so that an appeal from the judgment is now impossible, and Dalton will have to serve his term.

By order of Judge Brown the courtroom was cleared immediately after sentence was imposed to save Dalton the further humiliation of being glared at by the curious as he was being led back to his cell in the county jail. He was taken out of the courthouse through a rear entrance, and in less than an hour from the time he left the jail to be sentenced he was in his cell again.

REMAINS SILENT.

Neither Dalton nor any of his attorneys would discuss the sentence. When asked for a statement by a representative of THE TRIBUNE as he was leaving the courtroom, the prisoner smilingly declined to be interviewed, and referred the questioner to his lawyers. At the county jail afterwards Dalton refused to see any of the newspaper men, saying that he had no comment to make.

"There is nothing to say about Dalton's sentence," said Attorney Charles H. Fairall, "and I decline to discuss my client's decision not to appeal from the judgment. That is a matter that the public need not know about. Dalton has decided to take his medicine and this ought to suffice."

Attorney Burton J. Wyman talked along the same lines, saying that it was not necessary to discuss the sentence and the prisoner's failure to appeal. Attorney Edward E. Gehring was also noncommittal.

Both District Attorney Donahue and Assistant District Attorney Hynes declined to make any statement. They simply said that justice had triumphed and that an offending public official had met his due. That was all.

there have been several persons who have come to me and attempted to speak to me about the matter. There has been no one who has come to me to urge anything against you; but all of the persons who have desired to talk to me about the matter have spoken in your behalf. In fact I think there were two or three members of the jury who rendered a verdict in your case, who came and stated that the jury—one of them stated that had they thought of it he was sure they would have followed up that verdict with recommending you to the mercy of the court. That was proper for the juror to come and say that, as long as they felt that way. There have been other persons who have spoken to me, attempted to speak to me upon the matter, attempting to advise a lenient sentence. To those persons I have, of course, stated that I did not deem it proper that they should discuss the matter with me. One person even came to me and stated that some time ago, during an investigation of a former matter, that he had said something regarding you in my presence that was not in your favor, and he desired to make an additional statement in that regard that would correct the same. I told the gentleman that I did not know, that I did not remember what it was, and there was not any need of his correcting it with me. I want to say in passing to you, if you do it without regard of course to any persons that have spoken to me, or anything of that kind, I shall utterly disregard that. Furthermore I have been in some considerable doubt while such is the attitude that it was my duty to assume you have lived here; I have lived here. You have run for office in political campaigns, have been the subject of attack in various campaigns. You have conducted your campaign and have made warm friends, and I presume you have enemies. Regarding these past matters, some of which were touched upon in the trial, I know absolutely nothing. There is nothing that has come to me in a proper channel about you or about any of your past matters that it would be right for me to regard whatever I know nothing about any former transac-

INSPECTOR MOLES GETS APPOINTMENT

W. Moles, inspector in the street department, was this morning temporarily appointed inspector of concrete construction on the new city hall, on the recommendation of Superintendent of Construction J. J. Donovan.

tions of yours. Anything that I may have heard has been merely the most idle of gossip and street talk. As far as I am concerned I have no knowledge upon that at all. I want to state to you that in passing sentence I am entirely putting out of consideration anything that may have been said by any person in your favor or against you. I know nothing about those matters; and it is not proper for me to be prejudiced against you or for you to receive a sentence that would be in the slightest degree influenced by what persons on the street may have said, what others may have said regarding any of those matters. I believe that I can and will put them entirely out of consideration.

"I am confronted with the situation of being in a public office, performing a public duty. In the performance of that duty I am now called upon to pass sentence upon a man who has also been in public office and entrusted with a public duty.

"Regarding any remarks that I may make here in the matter of passing sentence, I want to say to you, Henry Dalton, that I know that no punishment, no matter what the punishment, can ever be inflicted upon you that can be anywhere near as great as the punishment that has been inflicted upon you by the verdict of a jury finding you guilty of a felony. A man who has occupied the prominent position, the position of esteem, love and friendship in the community that you have occupied, must necessarily suffer keenly the disgrace and punishment for your wrongdoing."

"The system of punishment under our criminal procedure, one of the principles of our criminal procedure as to the purpose of punishing crime, is the deterrent effect. This procedure has not been a great success. I believe the time will come when we will have a better way of dealing with the matter. However, it is the way provided for by the statute, and if there was ever an occasion where a court ought to take the defects of the law into consideration it is in this city. Under our present procedure, under all conditions as they exist at the present time, there is no better and no stronger way to prevent it than to deal severely with it when it is discovered."

"In your case, Dalton, the public official. I do not believe that there has been in all the county of Alameda, in all its history, a man who had more friends, who was believed in to a larger degree, than you have been believed in by the people of this county. Your attitude, the attitude in this case shows that you have been such as one of the witnesses testified, you had a frank appearance, and he at first was not willing to believe that there was anything wrong in the matter."

"There has been much said during the course of the trial regarding the manner in which you conducted the trial, and I am satisfied from the evidence that you did request of Behan, when Behan came to you, you made the proposition to him, as Behan testified to. That being so, it was a crime. You had then asked for a bribe. Had there been nothing further said in Behan's story, that is, the conversation, and if you had come out of the witness stand and denied it, I do not believe there would have been a jury in the world where you could get twelve men who would convict a person simply upon that. That being so, the officers of the law were justified in their action of securing evidence to warrant your conviction. They did proceed to secure evidence that finally resulted in your conviction. There was, during the course of the trial, a considerable amount of criticism of the officers of the law regarding their attitude in the matter. My own opinion of their conduct is nowhere near as strong as they would be, were it not for the fact that some of those officers of the law were men who were formerly associated with me; and I do not think it proper for me to say anything in praise of their actions, particularly in this case. I believe, that the officers of the law, and the officers of this company, took the action that was necessary to take in order to place it beyond a doubt as to your action in the matter. They did so, they put the testimony of your conduct on the stand, and they have been convicted. In addition to committing the crime as charged in the indictment, you went upon the witness stand and told that which the jury, by their verdict, have said was not the truth. As you told your story upon the witness stand, I am unable to state to you that there was no feeling in my heart regarding the story, other than one of deep sympathy and pity for you that you should have told such a story as that. The story in every aspect failed to bear the earmarks of truth. I am sorry, that you did that, because in the light of that into consideration in the sentence, it makes the matter worse."

"In passing sentence upon you, as I have already stated to you before, it is my sworn duty to take into consideration the fact that you were a trusted public official, and that because of that fact you were far greater than it would be simply upon an ordinary citizen. You had taken an oath to perform your duties. You were not only under the obligation of the oath, but you were also a leader among men. That power you have displayed during the course of the trial. I watched you during the course of the trial, with this joyful appearance, your supposed joyful appearance, with

HINES PROJECTS PRESIDENT INTO THE LORIMER TRIAL

Asserts That Former Representative Boutell Told Him Taft Regarded Accused as Acceptable Senatorial Candidate

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Edward Hines of Chicago caused a sensation today by testifying before the Senate Lorimer committee that Representative Henry S. Boutell of Illinois, now American minister to Switzerland, told him that President Taft, regarding Lorimer as an acceptable senatorial candidate, was anxious to have him elected and would be very glad to assist in his election.

Today's session of the committee began with Attorney Hanes, counsel for Senator Lorimer, questioning Hines further about the trips to New York last winter, when the Lorimer election issue was pending before the Senate. Hines testified that on one of the trips he called on E. H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation to see about the price of stock in a Colorado iron company.

COUP IS SPRUNG.

Suddenly, at the instance of his counsel, Mr. Hines produced a sheet of paper, without introduction and without signature or date, but which Mr. Hines swore was in Mr. Boutell's handwriting. The little sheet contained these words: "I should like to have the senator know who was the only man in Washington who went to the President in his behalf and brought off (sic) the goods."

Mr. Hines declared the senator referred to was Senator Lorimer and his election to the Senate was the subject of the note. Hines declared that Mr. Boutell said he had gone to see President Taft and had told him that Lorimer seemed to be the only man whom the faction of the Senate would elect. Mr. Hines continued: "Mr. Boutell said that after he told the President of Lorimer's capabilities he (the President) said he was very anxious to have a senator elected from Illinois and that Mr. Lorimer was very acceptable to him, and that he would do all he could to assist in electing him."

WHEN LETTER WAS FOUND.

"When did you find this supposed letter?" asked Senator Kern of Indiana. "I found it yesterday in going through my papers."

"Did you have it when you testified a few days ago?"

"Yes," testified that Mr. Boutell's talk with the President was two or three weeks before Lorimer was elected. "I know the day," declared Hines, "because I met him on the way to the White House. He said that he was going to the White House to tell the President that it looked as if Lorimer was the only man on whom the factions could unite and to ask the President to help him."

KERN ASKS QUESTION.

"Was he going to tell that the Demoyour handclasp ready for the persons who came in; but beyond and behind it all I saw the feeling in your heart of deep trouble. That I realize is simply your ability, your power to put a bold, brave appearance upon the outside. I am satisfied that you had the same feeling that anyone else would have under such trying circumstances.

"The struggle that is going to be yours when you come out, as I have already said, is going to be a very, very hard one."

"I am inclined to believe that when you come out of the state prison, notwithstanding the prejudice which exists in society, as constituted today, against a man who has served a term in the penitentiary, I am still of the belief that there is some considerable chance, whatever remaining years of your life there may be when you come out of the state prison, for you to accomplish some things in life."

"The defendant has been arraigned?"

The Clerk: "Yes."

The Court: "Henry Dalton, as the clerk has already informed you, an indictment was returned by the grand jury of the county of Alameda, presented in open court, signed a true bill by the foreman, filed in this court on the 19th day of May, 1911, charging you with the crime of felony, to-wit, asking and receiving a bribe, as set forth in the indictment. Upon this indictment you were duly and regularly arraigned and entered a plea of not guilty. You were subsequently tried by a jury, and by that jury found guilty as charged in the indictment, and this is the time set for the passing of sentence."

"It is the judgment of this court that for the crime of which you have been duly convicted by a jury, you be imprisoned in the state prison at San Quentin for the period of eight years as a punishment for your crime. You are remanded to the custody of the sheriff, by him to be delivered to the custody of the warden of the state prison at San Quentin."

CONTRACT LET ON THE FOOTHILL BOULEVARD

Continuation of the Thoroughfare from Hayward to Dublin Canyon

COST OF THE WORK
WILL BE $105,748.70

Road Will Be Much Appreciated by Autoists and the General Public

The supervisors this morning awarded the contract for the continuation of the Foothill boulevard between Oakland and Hayward and extending from the latter town through Dublin canyon to the Ramo-some-Crummey Company, the contract price being $105,748.70.

There were three bids offered, the other proposals being received as follows: Cotton Brothers and Company, $144,624.15; Bates, Borland & Ayer, $121,206.30. The estimated cost of the proposed improvement by County Surveyor Hayward was $101,300. The contractors were allowed 150 days in which to complete the work and will be required to give bonds in the sum of $25,000.

IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT.

This is one of the most important improvements which the board of supervisors has undertaken since the completion of the Oakland-Hayward boulevard, which, with the other excellent roads in this section, has given Alameda county reputation for model thoroughfares in all parts of the state.

This project has long been entertained by the older members of the board, more especially by Supervisors Bridge, Kelley and former Supervisor, now County Auditor Hornor, and has been espoused with no less enthusiasm by the newer members, Supervisors Foss and Mullins.

TERRITORY TRAVERSED.

The territory to be traversed is in one of Supervisor Bridge's road districts, and the road will be about five and one-half miles in length. The latter will extend from a point on the main county road from Dublin to Hayward, at a point on that thoroughfare northeasterly 664 feet from the intersection of the center line of the said Dublin-Hayward road, with the center line of the Castro valley road and extending in a general northeasterly direction a distance of 27,900 feet in the Castro valley and Palomares road districts.

There has been a road running, in a general way, through that section of the county for a number of years, but the supervisors considered that it would cost more to repair and reconstruct and rebuild the main road than to acquire and construct a new one between the points referred to.

TO JOIN HIGHWAY.

The work contemplated is the grading, macadamizing, curbing and guttering the thoroughfare throughout its entire length after the manner in which the boulevard between this city and Hayward has already been completed. Eventually, the proposed new road and the original road will be joined together with the system of highways which is to be built by the state of California at a cost of $18,000,000.

The completion of this road will be appreciated by the producers in the interior of the county as well as by the owners of automobiles in all parts of the state, because the canyons through which it passes are among the most picturesque in the state of California.

MANITOBA NEEDS HARVEST LABORERS

OTTAWA, July 24.—A last desperate effort is being made in the east to attract harvest laborers to the Manitoba wheat fields. Hon. Robert Rogers, Manitoba's minister of public works, is in Ottawa for the purpose of establishing labor bureaus here, in Montreal and in Toronto.

The labor situation is reported serious in the western provinces and the high officials are lending their aid.

Factory Hand Faints as He Is Whirled From Floor to Ceiling

Joseph Brothers, of 722 Linden street, was the victim of a terrible and sensational accident this forenoon about 10:30 o'clock at the factory of the California Fruit Canners' Association. First and Second streets, where he was employed as an oiler.

The man was working in front of an electric grating machine when his left hand became entangled with the belt that drives the apparatus. Brothers was dragged along the floor for several feet to the shaft, where he was caught between the belt and the next instant his arm was crushed between the belt and the wheel. In this position Brothers was thrown round and round in the air, every revolution dashing his body against the ceiling along which the shafting is lined. It was several seconds before the machinery could be shut down and in the meantime the dozens of factory hands who witnessed the horrible accident were panic stricken and ran about the room shrieking and beside themselves with fear for Brothers' life. Several of the women fainted, and this added to the confusion.

As soon as Brothers could be extricated from his dreadful position he was rushed to the Receiving hospital, where Dr. Oliver D. Hammett, chief surgeon, took personal charge of the case. He found that the unfortunate man's left arm had been terribly crushed and mutilated and the hand almost torn off at the wrist.

The examination also showed that Brother's body was terribly bruised. On

SUFFRAGETTES TO ANSWER CHARGES

Mother-in-Law Takes Hand in Unique Divorce Suit

NEW YORK, July 24.—The charges brought by Dr. Lee de Forest against the suffrage movement in asking a divorce from his wife, Nora Blatch de Forest, will not go unanswered. A secret executive meeting of the Woman's Political Union, of which Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, Dr. de Forest's mother-in-law, is president, has been called for next Thursday evening. A member of the union who refused to be quoted stated today that following this meeting a statement would be given to the public in which the suffragettes would defend their cause against Dr. de Forest's warnings to men "not to marry into a family tainted with suffrage."

Mrs. Blatch has signified her intention of presiding at the meeting and suggesting proper reply to Dr. de Forest's criticism of a suffrage mother-in-law.

PREFERS VOTER TO VOTE.

One woman, who does not agree that man is becoming a "mere biological necessity" in the suffrage family, is Mrs. Benton McMillin, wife of the former Governor of Tennessee.

Mrs. McMillin arrived in New York today on her way to a two months' visit with friends in Newport and the Adirondacks.

For two years Mrs. McMillin served as president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs of Tennessee.

"It is perfectly horrid," said Mrs. McMillin, referring to Dr. de Forest's statement. "Men will never be cast aside for women."

"Personally, I prefer a voter to a vote. Man has always been pre-eminent. I believe he will continue to be so in the future."

"We hear little of suffrage in Tennessee. In truth, I believe the women of the South are not nearly as keen on suffrage as the women of the North."

CAUSES UNHAPPINESS.

"There is no doubt that suffrage is causing a great unrest among women."

"This I have observed from the tremendous quantity of literature being published on the subject, and from talks with scores of women. I believe suffrage will not bring happiness to women. Way down deep in every woman's breast she has a sneaking idea of wanting to please some man. She certainly will not please him if she competes with him in politics."

Southern women are devoted to their homes. I believe no class of women have more regard for the fine old traditions of the country than the Southern women. They are ideal wives and mothers. Southern women have not gone into the professions so much as the Northern women, but surely they have found enough to keep them both busy and happy."

"Women who complain of men deteriorating," said Mrs. McMillin, "only cast reflections on themselves. Women are naturally responsible for the race. Why, then, should they criticize it?"

AGED MILLIONAIRE FLEES FROM DESIGNING PEOPLE

NEW YORK, July 24.—James B. Hammond, aged inventor of typewriters, had his fondest wish gratified yesterday when he was able to sail from America and business worries aboard the Lounger II, a sailing yacht built to his design.

For twenty-seven years Hammond has tended to roam the seven seas, secure from annoying relatives and designing employees. No man is believed to have had so many enemies as Hammond. Because of his generosity to employees, some relatives had the millionaire inventor spirited away to a sanitarium on his 60th anniversary. They declared he was insane. It cost Hammond no money, and he carried to prove the allegation unfounded.

Hammond was accompanied by his secretary, Holmes; his nurse, masseur, chauffeur, his pet dogs, a canary and a big phonograph.

By the time he is 100 years old Hammond expects to come back and live ashore. Then he will present his boat to the government as a model of marine architecture. The Lounger II is 35 feet long, 16 feet beam, has a draft of three feet and can make a speed of 15 knots under sail and power.

MRS. JANE WESTERMAN DIES AT EARLY AGE

Mrs. Jane Westerman, wife of Harry H. Westerman of 677 Sixty-fifth street, died Saturday night at her home. She was a native of South Berkeley and had a brother, Edward Dwyer, who is a resident of Berkeley. Mrs. Westerman was 36 years of age and is survived by her husband and one child.

SUFFRAGISTS TO BE HOSTESSES

Oakland Members of Amendment League Plan for a Series of Meetings

Members of the Oakland Suffrage Amendment League will act as hostesses at a series of meetings to commence Wednesday evening, July 26, in Lincoln Hall, where City Attorney Ben Woolner will be the principal speaker. Among the other citizens who will give their views on suffrage are Carlos G. White, A. H. Elliot and E. J. Johnson. They will discuss the subject from a legal standpoint.

The gatherings are being held to arouse interest in the proposed suffrage amendment to be voted upon on October 10. J. W. Izett of New Zealand delivered the address of the evening at the first of a series of neighborhood meetings. He sketched conditions in New Zealand, where political quality has been established, and spoke of the ballot in this country, suggesting a number of reforms the enfranchisement of women would accomplish.

Others who took part in the discussion were Mrs. Agnes Day, Mrs. S. C. Borland, Mrs. Blackburn and Mrs. Johnson. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. A. Black, 324 Taft avenue.

MYSTERY SHIP'S CAPTAIN RETURNS

Says Hayti Is Lawless and Her New Warship Useless

NEW YORK, July 24.—"I have been in every corner of the earth, but Hayti is the most lawless I ever saw," said Captain Arens of Germany, who took the mysterious steamer Coriolis Grostuck to that country and who is in New York this week, having shaken the dust of the Haytian capital from his feet as soon as his mission was finished. On his arrival Captain Arens said positively that General Grostuck had not been there one of the crew or a passenger. He attacked the Coriolis on the voyage from Italy. He said:

"The Consul Grostuck was in awful shape. Her funnels were rusted away at their base and her guns were well nigh useless."

EXPECTS EXPLOSION.

"When at last the steamship was delivered to President Simon," he continued, "four salutes were fired and since then the guns have not been used. As the tropical sun, it would not be surprising if a premature explosion blew the ship out of the water. The guns are uncovered and everything is rusting as fast as possible. The city of Port au Prince is full of knives and thieves. I was attacked and robbed and nearly killed in the public square and afterwards never left the hotel."

BLOOD FLOWS WHEN REBELS FIGHT POLICE

JUAREZ, Mexico, July 24.—One man dead, another fatally wounded and a third shot in two places is the net result of a pitched battle in this city at 3 o'clock yesterday between the city police and insurgent soldiers.

The beginning of the affray was the result of an argument between Darillo Hernandez, an insurgent soldier, and Dolores Martinez, street commissioner of Juarez, in front of Martinez's residence. When Martinez requested Hernandez to desist from his argument, Hernandez opened fire upon him with a pistol. Martinez ran into his residence, securing a rifle and shooting Hernandez through the head, killing him instantly. Martinez was wounded and another insurgent was shot fatally.

Comrades of Hernandez climbed upon the roof of the garrison building, near by, and opened fire upon the Martinez residence, which was returned by a detachment of police who had appeared upon the scene. About fifty shots were fired before General Blanco, who was summoned, was able to quell the disorder.

MACARTHUR MAKES PLEA FOR USE OF UNION LABEL

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—In an address to the Sacramento Union Labor League in this city Saturday night, Walter MacArthur of the Coast Seaman's Journal of San Francisco advocated that working people demand that the drawers of every article be purchased. He advocated the insistence on the use of the label as the best and surest method of unionizing the country. He declares that this will do more to strengthen the cause of unionism than anything else.

"If the people in general would buy goods only marked with the union label they would make themselves the final arbiters of all labor difficulties," he said. MacArthur stated that he believed in arbitration, but that in labor troubles it was the employer who refused to arbitrate. By asking for the union label the people would be the arbiters and could make their power felt. The determination of labor troubles finally rested with the consuming public, and this means the decision of disputes would be placed in its hands.

WILSON FIRST CHOICE IN GOTHAM STRAW VOTE

NEW YORK, July 24.—So far as known the magazine World's Work has the first in the field with anything like a systematic canvass of presidential candidates for 1912. The names of 2415 of its subscribers were drawn at random, one State at a time, by clerks ignorant of the purpose of the drawing. The names were divided among several States in proportion to the electoral vote of each, five times as many ballots being sent to each State as it had electoral votes. Here is the result:

Woodrow Wilson, 519.
Theodore Roosevelt, 274.
Judson A. Harmon, 96.
Robert M. La Follette, 91.
Chas. F. Johnson, 45.
William J. Bryan, 34.
Albert C. Campbell, 24.

NEW BILL AT ORPHEUM IS REPLETE WITH TOP-LINERS

Program One of Most Diverting Seen in Months

It is a very unusual bill the Orpheum has this week—a bill worth going a long way to see. Three "head liners" is what the management promised, but they have done even better than that, for there are really four. Cracker-jack acts they are, every one of them, furnishing that variety of entertainment so greatly to be desired on a vaudeville bill. There is Al Johnson, minstrel man, who brings down the house with his songs and foolishness; Emma Dunn, who grips the heart strings of even the most callous with her portrayal of motherhood in a sketch called "The Baby"; the Charles Abner troupe of bicyclists, who cause a catching of breath by their daring riding of the familiar wheel, and Willa Holt Wakefield, who furnishes the quiet delight of some simple songs rendered in a taking manner. Four headliners on one bill is surely enough to please the most captious, and to convince even the hardest New Yorker, accustomed to a galaxy of comedians on one bill, that we can be as metropolitan in our amusements—at times—as he.

JOLSON A SCREAM.

With so many top-notchers all at once, it is a difficult proposition to say who carries off the honors of the bill. If Al Johnson didn't, it was only by very narrow margin, for he kept the house in a continuous roar of laughter. This is his last appearance in vaudeville, it is claimed, for he is going to blossom out into a musical comedy star under the management of the Shuberts this coming season, and if he makes the hit there he has just recently done in the performance at the new Winter Garden in New York. It will probably be many a long day before we can laugh at his absurdities again as we did last night. So make the most of him while you may.

EMMA DUNN TRAGIC.

Emma Dunn has a more or less difficult task to perform in her little act, for the plot deals with the love of a mother for her child, something that seems a bit out of place on a vaudeville, or any other stage, unless it rings absolutely true. That it does with Miss Dunn, who has become famous for her portrayals of mothers, first with the late Richard Mansfield in Ibsen's Peer Gynt and last year in My Darling Clementine at the New York Theatre. The playlet is the work of John Stokes, who in private life answers to the title of Miss Dunn's husband, and who also plays the doctor in the sketch and does it well, blessed as he is with a pleasing personality.

WILLA WAKEFIELD CHARMING.

That same personality is what Willa Holt Wakefield, who has been announced as "entertainer to New York's four hundreds," has to depend upon in making good with her act. The songs she gives are of the simplest description, not at all "whimsical," and she talks them with no attempt at singing even the choruses, but an air of refinement and loquaciousness, carries all she does to success. Probably, if Miss Wakefield injected a little more "punch" into her act, a little more authority, her reception would be more demonstrative, but after all, we have many acts that fairly hit the audience in the face in their efforts to catch the public's eye that it is a relief to find one now and then that gets by with quieter methods.

AHEARN'S ACT THRILLING.

The slap-dash, slam-bang sort of thing is all right in its place, and is the only sort of thing, for instance, in such a number as the Ahearn's. It would be a pretty tame sort of affair if taken quietly.

STRAP HANGERS STAND ON CURB

When Police Arrest Crews for Overcrowding Cars Stop

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 24.—With the police department and the street car employees at last in accord, the strap-hangers, it seems, are about to come into their own, even though he be left on the curb. The police have been hauling street car crews off their cars and halting them into the municipal court, charged with violations of the strap-hangers' ordinance. To date thirty-three crews await hearings.

The crew of an overloaded car "beat the police to it" by refusing to budge an inch and then called on the officers to eject passengers above the capacity of the car. This done, the car proceeded, comfortably filled.

COLON, Panama, July 24.—Henry L. Stimson, the American Secretary of War, who has been in Panama for the last week, embarked yesterday on the cruiser North Carolina. He will go to Porto Rico and Cuba.

If you have freckles you need Kintho! That's as sure as freckles! Hot summer winds and sunbathing bring them out in all their hideousness, and Kintho is ready for you wherever you are. Kintho is a two-ounce package of Kintho's Freckle-Face. It is a light cream, but the most obstinate freckles are easily and quickly removed, under a guarantee of money back if it fails. STRICT QUARANTINE REGULATIONS AGAINST CHOLERA IN U. S.

the Cause

NEW YORK, July 24.—Because of the unusually strict quarantine regulations recently issued by the United States government for protection against the threat of invasion of cholera, the steamship San Giorgio will arrive from Naples tomorrow morning without a passenger.

She had previously been booked to carry 700 passengers, mostly steerage, when a cable message was received from Naples noting that the United States government had increased the time of quarantine of vessels bound from Naples to the United States from five days to ten. The San Giorgio had already obeyed the customary five-day regulation and was prepared to depart with its passengers and a big cargo.

After a hurried conference it was decided to disembark the passengers and send the vessel on scheduled time, because of its large consignment of perishable freight.

The handling of the steerage business is the most profitable department of a steamship company's activities, however, and the loss to the line will be a considerable one.

SUNDAY RECORDS TWO TRAGEDIES AT OXNARD

OXNARD, July 24.—Yesterday was marked by two tragedies here. Virgil O. Lennox, a wealthy rancher, was run down by a Southern Pacific train while driving his automobile at high speed across the railroad tracks at Rice station. The machine was demolished and Lennox died in a few minutes. He was 29 years old.

Later in the day Ted F. Gould, proprietor of a cafe, was stabbed in the abdomen by J. Black, a waiter, after a quarrel in Gould's place of business over money matters.

Black was arrested and Gould was taken to a hospital where it was said his wound is dangerous.

HAM AND BACON IS LOOT FOR BURGLARS

A number of choice hams, several slabs of bacon and a gold watch and chain made up the unique loot of a burglar who last night entered the butcher shop of Philip Holzman at 505 San Pablo avenue. The thief gained access to the shop through a rear window. The robbery has been reported to the police.

Pickpockets secured a gold watch from the pocket of W. B. Beyer of 1609 Oxford street while he was doing some shopping at the Free Market yesterday afternoon.

C. Pierce has asked the police to find the thief who entered his home at 369 Sixty-third street yesterday, and made away with two suits of clothes.

Tools valued at $25 were stolen from a shed at Fifty-third street and Park avenue early yesterday. The tools were the property of Carl and L. Erickson, carpenters, of 781 Apper street.

DR. PAGUE OFFERS LARGE REWARD FOR GOODS

Dr. Frank C. Pague offers a very liberal reward for the return of a lot of silverware taken from this residence, 339 Adams street, last Thursday. Through a typographical error in THE TRIBUNE Sunday morning it was stated that a little reward was offered. This is a mistake. The doctor is anxious to get his property back and offers a large reward.

MORTUARY LIST OF CALIFORNIA

Statistician at Capitol Gives Out the Classification of Deaths in 1910

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—The race classification of the 32,295 deaths in California in 1910 is as follows: White 20,673, or 64.7 per cent; Chinese 652, Japanese 444, negro 438, Indian 156. The percentage of white as compared with 94.7 for 1910 was 94.5 for 1909.

Throughout the five-year period the deaths of Chinese occurred mainly in San Francisco and suburbs and in the central interior valley. The deaths of Japanese were mostly in the central interior valley and in Los Angeles; the deaths of negroes chiefly in Los Angeles and the deaths of Indians mostly wholly in the far north.

The percentage of white in 1910 was 96.8 for cancer, 96.7 for heart disease, 95.4 for Bright's disease, and 95.4 also for diphtheria and croup. The proportion of white dead was likewise above the average for sundry diseases of the nervous, respiratory and digestive systems.

On the other hand the percentage of white was relatively low for typhoid fever, 93.1, and for tuberculosis of the lungs only 90.6. The explanation is that typhoid fever kills many Japanese and pulmonary tuberculosis many Chinese and negroes. In 1910, for instance, the percentage of Japanese was no less than 3.8 for typhoid fever, against only 1.4 for all causes. The percentage of Chinese was as great as 4.5 for tuberculosis of the lungs, against merely 2.1 for all causes. Figures for the preceding four years present similar contrasts. California statistics thus show clearly that Japanese are peculiarly subject to typhoid fever and that Chinese and negroes furnish many victims for the "great white plague."

Alden Anderson's Challenge.

Former Superintendent of Banking Alden Anderson, who has just returned from Europe, makes two statements in regard to the Bank of Shasta, which was closed by order of the State Superintendent of Banking, that challenge public attention. They do more, they challenge the financial acumen and good faith of Mr. Williams, who succeeded Mr. Anderson as Superintendent of Banking.

Mr. Anderson says the Bank of Shasta would have overcome its difficulties had it been permitted to continue business three months longer. Mr. Anderson also declares that if he is permitted to take charge of the bank's affairs even now he will guarantee to make its assets pay all the liabilities in full. If he can do that he will confer a great benefit on both depositors and the debtors of the bank.

When the Bank of Shasta was closed by Superintendent Williams the charge was sent out that the bank's affairs had been grossly mismanaged with the knowledge and consent of Mr. Anderson, then the head of the State's banking department; that, in fact, it had been virtually looted, and that Mr. Anderson had wilfully neglected to take steps to protect the bank's depositors and creditors. This charge was taken up by the Lincoln-Roosevelt League organs and circulated to the extent of their ability; Mr. Anderson was accused of official misfeasance and even threatened with criminal prosecution. In short, the Bank of Shasta was made a political issue and its muddled affairs the subject of acrimonious discussion from an extremely partisan and prejudiced standpoint. Strenuous endeavors were made to show that Mr. Anderson betrayed his trust from unworthy motives.

At the time Mr. Anderson, who had just been legislated out of office, was in Europe and therefore not in a position to defend himself. He announced, however, that he would shortly return and prove the charges brought against him to be unfounded and unjust. Now he is back home, and the Bank of Shasta has received his first attention. From Redding he issues the statement that the bank would have been all right if its doors had not been summarily closed, and that even now he can make it pay out if allowed to manage its affairs. The first statement is a broad intimation that the bank was wrecked to serve a political purpose and furnish a justification for legislating Mr. Anderson out of office; that it was pursuant to a design to cloud his good name and impeach his official rectitude.

As to the responsibility for the bank's condition THE TRIBUNE has no opinion to offer. As to Mr. Anderson's ability to make the bank pay its obligations we do have an opinion. He offers to guarantee this result. His offer should be accepted, for his guarantee is good. Mr. Anderson is a successful business man, and has had an extended experience in handling large enterprises. He had proved his capacity as a banker and manager of business enterprises before he was appointed Superintendent of Banking. His honor was never assailed till the Bank of Shasta was closed, and his standing in the financial world is of the highest. Among bankers his integrity and capacity are unquestioned. When he says he can do a thing the men who know him best and are best informed in regard to the task he assumes have confidence in his assertion. They will lend their assistance and moral support to his effort to liquidate the bank without loss to either depositors or creditors.

It is worth a trial. That Mr. Anderson was unjustly attacked in this matter is beyond doubt, and it is due him as well as to those financially interested in the bank that he be given a fair opportunity to retrieve the institution from bankruptcy. Liquidating a bank is an operation calling for financial acumen and business capacity, for the interests of both creditors and debtors can be sacrificed by imprudent action. Both parties are best served by getting all that it is possible to get out of the assets; both can be injured by sacrificing the assets in order to hasten liquidation.

What has come over our engaging friend, Chester Herodias Rowell? He is getting to be as sober as a collic at a bench show, and writes with a sedate regard for facts and reason that is truly remarkable. This subordination of sound to sense is commendable and excites our profound admiration. The Fresno Republican has ceased to laud La Follette and gird at President Taft. It no longer treats the President as a pickpocket who should be suspiciously watched if not handed over to the police. On the contrary, it speaks of him in terms of respect, admiration even; and indicates that it will support him for re-election. Naturally this gives us gratified surprise. It is proof that Mr. Rowell is not so simple as he looks and that he is capable of appreciating the facts of a political situation. When he is not ghost dancing he is quite a sensible fellow, fully capable of distinguishing the difference between a hawk and a hand saw. We welcome his return to the ranks of sanity and soberness, not as a conversion, but as an assertion of latent good sense.

A poll taken by the World's Work Magazine shows Woodrow Wilson ahead of all other candidates for the presidency. The editor of World's Work is an old college chum of Dr. Wilson. Nuff sed.

It seems that Texas has voted against prohibition by a narrow majority; but it was a close shave. It was confidently expected by the opponents of prohibition that a majority ranging between 50,000 and 100,000 would be cast against the amendment, but the returns indicate only a tithe of the expected majority. The result does not indicate a decline in prohibition sentiment in the South, although Alabama has gone back to license and local option.

What Reciprocity Will Do.

President Taft expresses the opinion that the reciprocal trade arrangement with Canada will prove mutually beneficial to the people of the United States and the inhabitants of the Dominion, and he takes the view that the passage of the reciprocity bill was a non-partisan triumph over prejudice and the narrow self-interest of politicians who subordinated the general good to personal ambition and local demands. He does not say this in so many words, but that is what his language implies, for he gives the Democrats the credit of supporting the reciprocity agreement at the dictates of patriotism.

Reciprocity must now justify itself in application. It will prove itself a good thing or be a failure. Its workings cannot be judged from the standpoint of either protection or free trade, but by what it accomplishes in developing trade between the two countries and by the good it confers on both. Which is to say that reciprocity must stand or fall on its own merits irrespective of the contrary motives which prompted men to vote for it, or what effect it will have on our tariff policy in future.

Theories will now have to give way to practical demonstration, and whatever may be the effect on politics in this country, the demonstration will be conclusive in respect to matters now in dispute. Whether it will strengthen or weaken protection is not the question. That is not the test which should be applied to it, nor is it the test by which it will be judged. If it will broaden and enlarge the trade relations between the United States and Canada, on terms mutually beneficial, and bring the people of both countries into a closer communion and a more sympathetic understanding, it will accomplish all that is claimed for it, and justify the formation of the trade compact which Congress has just voted to sanction. If it does not, it will fall short of the expectation of those who favored it and give ground for amendment or annulment. We do not expect that the arrangement will prove satisfactory to everybody at the start, or that its benefits will be immediately felt, but we feel reasonably sure that in a short time it will prove so acceptable on both sides of the line that its continuance will be assured. It will be criticised no doubt—all radical commercial changes give dissatisfaction to somebody, interfere with somebody's profits—but in our opinion the people of both countries will be so pleased with it that they will not hear of repeal though they may consent to changes in the detail of the arrangement.

Nor do we apprehend that the policy of protection will be endangered, or even injuriously affected, by reciprocity with Canada. If it be admitted that a successful working of reciprocity on the basis which it has been entered into in this instance will be disastrous to the protective policy in general, it must also be admitted that protection stands on a very insecure and artificial foundation; in fact, that its foundation is so insubstantial that it will topple over when subjected to a comparison with a minor and restricted application of reciprocal trade. We do not believe protection is built upon such a narrow and unsubstantial basis that it can be overthrown by a mere breath of free trade; that it stands upon a higher and broader foundation than a mere denial of commercial intercourse on fair and equal terms. In short, we do not believe that reciprocity is a violation of the doctrine of protection, but is in direct line with the objects and principles of that policy. We have no fear that reciprocity with Canada will prove a failure, still less that it will be disastrous to the Republican party and the policy of protection.

Saturday night, about 8 o'clock, four young men in a touring car passed the Key Route train on Broadway at a speed of fully fifty miles an hour. The pace was so terrific that everybody who saw them gasped with astonishment. The identity of those wild riders is unknown, but their reckless example calls for a summary check. On Broadway north of Fourteenth street the speed ordinance is constantly violated, but the instance mentioned is an extreme one. It shows what temporizing with an evil leads to. If the law were enforced with more firmness and vigor the violators would not be so numerous, and there would be fewer sad accidents to record. A vast majority of automobile accidents are due to speeding or careless driving. Such instances as the one referred to involve a common peril which can and must be abated. The person who drives through the streets of a city at a speed of forty or fifty miles an hour is criminally endangering life; he is a menace to society and a public nuisance.

THACKERAY'S CENTENARY

Thackeray, a hundred years from his birth, still remains in restricted possession of Anglo-Saxondom. The centenary of Dickens, next year, will be celebrated sympathetically by other than those of the blood, but appreciation of his great rival is somewhat closely confined within racial lines. Perhaps it is all the deeper and more earnest on that account. Thackeray himself paid tribute to America in "The Virginians," with its vivid and revealing portraits of our early national heroes and its informing presentation of the colonial "conditions under which they were developed. But his real link with us is to be found in the common, though diversely expressed, characteristics of the two halves of the English-speaking world.

"A snob," he said, "is one who meanly admires a mean thing." In the one case and in the other day mean admiration was often enough cultivated on the false basis of social caste and pride of birth. In the other case and in the later day an admiration not always devoid of meanness rests on the worship of money and an undue deference to the new plutocracy. What Thackeray did for one manifestation of society in the '40s of the last century he would assuredly be doing for another if alive and active in the second decade of this. And he would also run the same risk of being misunderstood. Fifty years from now the unillusioned would still be calling him a cynic. What really was pain, impatience and indignation they would still term satire and contempt. But let us remember that the things he deeply loved, strongly believed in and stoutly defended were the real warp and woof of his work. If tenderness now and then got the upper hand of indignation, people ceased to term him a cynic and dubbed him a sentimentalist. The best belief now is that he was neither. And it may also be believed that when some one comes who shall see as he saw, shall feel as he felt and shall record as he recorded, the world will be the richer by another great master of fiction.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Clearing the Path

Reports from Washington, London and Tokio tend to the conclusion that the revision of the treaty of alliance between Great Britain and Japan not only leaves the way clear for the arbitration treaty between Great Britain and the United States, but foreshadows the acceptance by Japan of a similar treaty.

No difficulty appears to have been found by British and Japanese diplomats in agreeing upon the desired revision. Modifications were made as a natural result of the pending negotiations between the United States and Great Britain. The vital points in the revision is the clause declaring: "Should either high contracting party conclude a treaty of general arbitration with a third power, it is agreed that nothing in this agreement shall entail upon such contracting party an obligation to go to war with the power with whom such treaty of arbitration is in force."

An encouraging feature of the situation is the favorable attitude taken by France toward arbitration. It was once supposed that France would be the third national to join in support of the movement. It appears now that this honor may go to Japan, but it is fairly well assured that French statesmen will not long halt at the parting of the ways.

President Taft has initiated a policy for which the world is ripe. The ease with which the British and the Japanese have arranged their alliance to make way for peaceful arbitration is an evidence that other diplomats may find a way to follow if they choose.—New York World.

OLD AGE OUT OF FASHION

Careful studies and measurements have shown that our time of actual maturity and arrest of growth in physical characters, such as height, weight and chest girth, is much later than formerly supposed. Instead of reaching, as was at one time confidently stated, our full height at 18, our full strength at 23, and our full chest girth at 25, as a matter of fact we continue to increase slowly. It is true, in all these respects until 35, 38 and even 40 years of age. Dr. Hutchinson continues.

By living a healthful, active, happy life and keeping up all our interests, we can grow and develop and adjust ourselves and feel that we are growing until we are one day suddenly dead, without ever realizing in any distressing or painful way that we are growing old at all.

Already old age has gone out of fashion. The civilized educated man or woman of 70 is younger than the savage of 40 or the peasant of 50. What with steady spread of regular vacations and country or suburban homes and walking club and golf and gardens and automobiles and travel of all sorts, those who would have been considered old ones are now only 70 or 75 years young.

Not only is there a definite period in adult or later life when these so-called senile changes begin, but there is no period at which they become accelerated or start to progress at a more rapid rate than before. In fact, the extraordinary paradox exists, that what we term old age is the time of life in which we are growing old least rapidly. The only thing that makes it appear otherwise is that we have been steadily growing old all our lives long and the thousand imperceptible accumulations have mounted to a pitch which we can recognize.—Dr. Woods Hutchinson, in Hampton's Magazine.

FRENCH IN AFRICA

The French possessions in western Africa consist of a territory three times as large as the republic itself. The indigenous population of this vast domain, numbering some ten millions, is made up of at least thirty different races, each with a language of its own. Strangely enough, the administration of this modern Babel was conducted until recently neither in French nor in the various local dialects, but in Arabic, a tongue as foreign to the natives as French itself and far more difficult to learn—so difficult, indeed, that the French colonial officials themselves have as a rule succeeded only imperfectly in mastering it. To facilitate the introduction of this doubly alien official language the French government made its only institution for secondary education in the territory, the "medersa," at Djenne, an Arabic school. Meanwhile most of the correspondence between the administrators and the native chiefs was carried on through the marabouts, the importance and influence of these "holy men" being thus needlessly and dangerously enlarged.

One result of this enforced use of Arabic, a result that might have been foreseen but was not, has been the facilitation by a Christian government of the Islamic propaganda in Africa. Arabic literature, by means of which the language is chiefly taught, is almost exclusively and often fanatically religious in tone. The result has been a growth of solidarity among the younger generation of the various tribes increasingly away from French cultural influence and consistently closer to the Mahometan faith and to Mahometan modes of thought.

The danger has been recognized at last in this period of the sturdy, aspiring Islamic rival. The French colonial government has substituted French for Arabic as the official language in its West African dominions. Hereafter it will be the tongue of the courts as well as of all the other branches of the administration. Natives aspiring to enter the governmental service will be forced to learn it, the marabouts will be shorn of their semi-official power and thus, it is expected, French civilization will be made a counterweight to the progress of Mahometanism.—New York Tribune.

KITCHENER IN EGYPT

Lord Kitchener is undoubtedly a "strong man," but the talk concerning the drastic measures he is expected to take as the British resident in Egypt is largely superficial. He is not going to "crush out the growing dissatisfaction of the natives," because growing dissatisfaction cannot be crushed out, in the first place, except by removing the causes thereof, which is not "crushing," and also because the English policy in Egypt does not depend on the agent or consul of the home government.

It is likely that the government, in view of the admission of the last report of Sir Eldon Gorst, who died a few days ago, has reluctantly reached the conclusion that too much liberalism has proved a failure in Egypt. Gorst found that his motives and sentiments were misunderstood, and that his desire to encourage representative institutions in Egypt was mistaken for weakness and fear. The legislative council and general assembly were becoming centers of anti-British agitation, and instead of co-operating with the native ministers and the power back of them the nationalist leaders who are opposed to British rule were indulging dreams of coercion and intimidation of England.

Lord Kitchener may be the chosen instruments of a somewhat changed policy, but it is doubtful whether the Asquith-Grey-Lloyd-George cabinet will deliberately revert to iron rule and despotism in Egypt. The radicals and laborites in Britain would not support such a policy. The violent agitation it would provoke at home would find echoes in Egypt, and the fanatical nationalists might imitate the terrorists of India. A liberal government has no alternative; it must try doses of liberalism in India and Egypt as well as in South Africa and Australia and Canada, although the doses may be much smaller.—Chicago Record-Herald.

ITALIAN COLUMBUS CLUB AT BANQUET

Members of New Organization Meet at Festal Board in a Pleasant Reunion.

Officers and members of the recently organized Italian-Columbus Club gathered in a banquet last night in a local Italian cafe on lower Broadway. The affair proved an elaborate function and was attended by prominent Italian-American residents of this city and San Francisco.

F. Fugazzi, honorary president of the new club, was the guest of honor and made an address, delineating the plans and ideals of the organization. G. Ghiglietti acted as toastmaster of the evening and E. N. Belgrano officiated as master of ceremonies. There were many toasts and speeches in English and Italian.

The committee in charge of the affair included M. Martino, N. Pozzi, C. Cereghino, M. Dezzutti, M. Nanzo and P. N. Belgiano.

"CRAWFISH IN PANTS" IS THEME OF SERMON

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—"Crawfish in Pants" was the subject of a sermon delivered by the Rev. E. Fraser Langford, pastor of the First Baptist church, in which he criticized 30,000 Eastern church members who, according to statistics, come to California and fail to identify themselves with California churches. Dr. Langford drew his title to his sermon from George W. Cable's "Belletrist," in which the Acadian schoolmaster characterizes his backward pupil, Crebiche, as a crawfish.

"There are at least 30,000 human crawfish in California, Christians who are going backward in their religious exercises," said Dr. Langford last night. "I have seen people who have had goods shipped from the East go frantic over the loss of a rocking chair, but I have noticed that they did not become excited over the loss of their church-going habit."

"There are some local crawfish also. The man who has not learned to stop his ears when a slanderer is undermining the reputation of a woman, or attributing dishonest methods to a reputable competitor in business, is in the 'crawfish state.'"

AUTO GOES OVER BANK; MAN AND WIFE HURT

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Losing control of his car when he turned to shout a greeting to a party of oncoming friends on the heavy Calabasas grade at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, Perry Lowe and his wife of 851 East Jefferson street were seriously injured when their big machine went over the edge and rolled to the bottom of a ninety-foot embankment. Mrs. Lowe was the worst off, her injuries including those of an internal nature, which give rise to fears for her safety. That both were not killed outright is looked upon as miraculous, as both were unable to escape from the car until it had nearly reached the bottom. In its revolving tumble, which carried with it several lengths of barbed wire fence.

With two auto-lovers of friends the Lowe family was en route to Ventura for a four-day outing. Lowe was ascending the grade on the low gear and had just reached the turn of the road winding around the hill when the accident occurred. The injured couple were hastily extricated from beneath the partially wrecked machine and hurried to Calabasas, where, owing to defective telephones, it was nearly four hours before medical aid could reach them from this city.

PLAN BIG PARADE FOR LABOR DAY

Joint Picnic at Shell Mound to Follow the Big Event

The joint Labor Day parade committee of the Building Trades and Central Labor councils met at Central Labor hall, 453 Eighth street, to effect permanent organization for the celebration which will be held here this fall. T. Westoby was elected permanent chairman and F. H. Pratt secretary. George V. Manning was made first vice chairman and R. E. Keyser assistant secretary.

Committees were appointed to take charge of the details of the celebration. Additional members of each committee will be named at the next meeting, which will be held Saturday evening, July 29, at Central Labor hall. Various unions reported last night that they had engaged bands and prepared for the great showing in point of numbers ever made in a local Labor Day parade.

Following the parade in Oakland, the union men will join with the San Francisco unions in a picnic at Shell Mound park, which is now being arranged by the Building Trades and Central Labor councils of Alameda and San Francisco counties.

A feature of the picnic will be an address by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who will come from Washington, D. C., for the celebration. Athletic contests will follow the speech.

For the Labor Day parade in Oakland the joint committee has appointed the following committee members: Ways and means—A. W. Sefton, T. Westoby and E. J. Owens. Promotion and prizes—Emmett Hart, D. S. McCarthy, W. L. Record, M. P. Manning, and C. T. Owens. Parade and publicity—F. H. Pratt, A. W. Sefton and J. T. Bloomer.

AUTOISTS GO ARMED IN FEAR OF BANDITS

DEVILS LAKE, N. D., July 24.—Since the rumor has spread that automobilists are liable to be held up by bandits known to be in this section, every driver has procured a revolver, which he is carrying at his side in the car.

Beginning today, the chief special agent of the Great Northern railway scattered sixteen of his men in automobiles with orders to watch the road. Injuries which John Ringling received when his big Pierce Arrow went into a ditch Friday afternoon have turned out to be more serious than first reported, and the circus man is now confined to his private car under the care of two physicians.

Ringling's knee is wrenched and he is suffering great pain all through his body.

Lettunich, arrived from Austria when a boy and later engaged in apple orcharding in the Fajaro valley. Several years ago he went south in the commission business and gained control of the melon market of Southern California. He is survived by a bride of three months, Mrs. M. Milcovich Lettunich, and two brothers, Peter and M. J. Lettunich of Watsonville. The funeral will be held at the hotel in honor of a guest and the Newhalls were greatly complimented.

PASSAIC TO VOTE ON NEW CHARTER

Commission Form of Government Will Be Balloted On Tomorrow

PASSAIC, N. J., July 24.—This city will vote tomorrow on commission government. It is the seventh municipality in New Jersey to take action on the government scheme which Governor Wilson has sought to introduce.

Thus far the net majority against the innovation, cast by the communities, which have voted, is 22,000. This adverse vote has been polled in spite of strenuous organized work by the commission government league. Only one city, Trenton, and one small suburban town, Hawthorne, have favored the scheme in the polling. Four cities have rejected it.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT BY BOY COMPANION

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—Leslie H. Nelson, aged 15, living with his widowed mother at 611 Burrows street, was accidentally shot in the jaw yesterday morning by a companion, Phillip A. Rowell, 142 Joyce avenue, while engaged in target practice in the Black Hills with Rowell and another youth, Frank Cram of the same age. As the wounded boy sank unconscious to the ground, his two chums, realizing the danger of death, picked him up and carried him for two miles through dense brush and over fallen trees, until finally, on the verge of exhaustion, they saw him placed on a cot in the Central Emergency Hospital and heard the physicians' verdict that while the wound is serious, it is not necessarily fatal.

NEWHALLS ARE GUESTS OF HONOR IN SOUTH

SANTA BARBARA, July 24.—Signal honor was paid Captain William Mayo Newhall and his family at the Potter Hotel last night when a phonographic concert was given especially for them. The Potter orchestra accompanied the huge phonograph and the favorite selections of the Newhalls were played. Miss Marian Newhall, who is taking a most prominent part in the summer society circles, prepared the program and it was immensely enjoyed by every one. Only once before was a concert given at the hotel in honor of a guest and the Newhalls were greatly complimented.

DOCTOR PLANS TO PHOTOGRAPH SOUL

A Massachusetts Physician Is Going Deep Into Important Experiments

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 24.—In his search for the human soul, Dr. DuChane MacDougall of this city, who says he has weighed the soul of the dying and tested the passing of the spirit by powerful rays in all the colors of the spectrum, and sought to place definitely whence issued the sixteenth part of a pound of "soul substance" from the moribund body, is not waiting with keenest interest to observe what may be done to picture the spirit in X-ray photos. "The soul has a definite weight, ranging from about three-quarters of an ounce to a little more than an ounce, and in its relation to light it is identical with the ether of interstellar space. These things I have proved to my own satisfaction," Dr. MacDougall says. "From my observations of the soul, as subjected to light, I have come to the positive conclusion of the negative quality of the soul, namely, that its index of refraction to light is zero."

"The deaths observed under the white light did not reveal anything, and I then experimented with light in the colors of the spectrum, using a glass spectrum about a yard long. First, with the lines of the spectrum horizontal; and then with them vertical. As in the white light, these rays of the spectrum were held along and just above the body of the dying subject. Again, however, nothing was visible, and I arrived at the conclusion of negative proofs that the soul substance must be identical in this respect with the ether of space."

"My next experiments were conducted with a view to determining the relation of the soul substance to light, and I have carried them on until now. I am convinced of its resemblance in this respect to ether. What other attributes it has, in common with ether or dissimilar to it, we are yet to learn, possibly by the X-ray, but I believe the soul is a substance utterly unlike the protoplasm of our bodies, although up to this moment of death it is blended with the protoplasm of the brain and spinal cord."

BIG FLEET TO MANEUVER.
PROVINCETOWN, Mass., July 24.—Continuing the summer practice maneuvers, the greatest fleet of American warships ever assembled will make Provincetown its headquarters for the next fortnight. The program calls for mimic battles, day and night battle formations, gun practice, torpedo drills and experiments in conjunction with the adaptability of naval guns for warfare against aeroplanes.

INSIDE A PIANO

CHAPTER I.

THE MUSIC comes from the inside, not the outside! It matters not how beautiful and artistic the outside of a piano may be, if the inside is not constructed of the best materials, by the most experienced workmen, even a Paderewski cannot produce good music! Yet how many piano-buyers know anything whatever about the inside of a piano, and the difference between inferior materials and workmanship and really dependable and expert construction?

A sound-board rest upon the selection and seasoning of the woods used—a faulty grain in a single piece will mar the entire tone of an instrument—the slightest shrinkage from lack of seasoning will cause loss of tone which no amount of tuning can recover.

Fig. 2 is drawn from and illustrates a small section of a "KOHLER & CHASE" piano sound-board, built of the most carefully selected and properly seasoned spruce in pieces not exceeding two and a half inches in width, yet the woods are so exquisitely selected that the grain in each runs in exactly the same direction. You can imagine how many pieces of wood had to be rejected before this perfect harmony in the grain was achieved—perfect harmony in the grain of woods insured perfect tone in the piano.

Now look at Fig. 3, which is drawn from a small section of a rib on the sound-board of a "KOHLER & CHASE" PIANO. Every rib on a "KOHLER & CHASE" PIANO is scientifically graded, glued and doweled on the back of the sound-board while the latter still retains the heat of the dry kilns, so that during the cooling it takes a slightly convex form. This process is similar to that employed in the making of famous violins, and is so expensive that it is used by only a few of the best piano makers. The large number of "KOHLER & CHASE" PIANOS sold enables us to use this expensive process without material addition to the price of the piano.

If you are interested in knowing all about a piano and the difference between a good and a poor instrument, it will well repay you to read our future publicity, wherein we shall describe every part of a piano in detail; moreover, we shall be delighted to take you through our workshops and show you the materials and details in order that you may thoroughly understand the subject.

TWENTY-FIVE ARE HURT.

NEWARK, (O) July 24.—Twenty-five persons were injured, six seriously, here yesterday when the grandstand at Newark baseball park collapsed during a game between the Newark and Wheeling clubs of the Central League, carrying 350 persons with it. Many women and children were in the stand at the time.

LOST IN CHILTON PRISON?

BOSTON, July 24.—Lost now for many days among the crags and crevices of the Dent Du Midi, the perilous peak of the Swiss Alps, made famous by the poet Byron's "Prisoner of Chillon," George Homer Diman of this city has been given up as lost. Young Diman was of romantic form of mind and it was his interest in the Byronic legend which lured him to penetrate into the grand Alpine wilderness.

HARVEST HANDS GET NO JIGGERS OF WHISKY

ALTON, Ill., July 24.—Farmers across the Mississippi river from Alton in the country known as Missouri Point abolished the rule this year that every harvest hand and every thrasher is entitled to three jiggers of whiskey each day besides his wages. In other days West Alton became a battleground every harvest.

TAKES WIFE AT 70; EARNS $15 MONTHLY. MILWAUKEE, Wis.—"A man is never too old to marry," said John J. Duggan, aged 70 years, as he announced his engagement to Annie Muffett, aged 50 years, last night.

"I feel as young now as I ever did, and there is no reason why, if we love each other, we should not marry," Mr. Duggan secured his license yesterday, and although he says he would like to get it over in a hurry—the quicker the better for him—he will have to wait three weeks until the bans have been published the required three times at St. John's Cathedral.

It was sixty-two years ago, late in October, that Mr. Duggan, then a boy of scarce 8 years, came to Milwaukee from England. He has resided here practically ever since, excepting the time he has spent in the Soldiers' Homes at Waupaca and Milwaukee.

Now he is looking for a job. "I would take almost any kind of work I might be getting," he said as he looked wistfully at the reporter, inquiring if he knew of a place to be had. "I worked as porter at the Kirby House for over ten years. Those were in the days before the waterworks, and I had to pump the water seventy feet to supply the hotel."

"I get $15 a month pension. I got a raise in May. I will get another one when I am 75—it is $20 a month after that age. Perhaps I may get $20 soon. As a bill is now in Congress to raise it to $20. But those seniors are forgetting all the important things in their scrambling over that reciprocity bill with Canada."

"Yes, I have known the girl a long time. My father was a school teacher in the Third ward for many years. Her folks and mine were well acquainted, and

RUINS A FINE GOWN RESCUING THE GIRLS. NEW YORK.—Mrs. Mineola Teets, wife of Nelson Teets of Scranton, Pa., was sitting on the veranda of the Teets summer home just off Hudson river, in Undercliff, N. J., when she heard the cries of several frightened girls, who were on a point of sand 200 yards down the river.

Mrs. Teets, who is 21 years and a bride of less than a year, was fully dressed even to her hat. Far out in the river she could see a woman struggling against the tide. So she threw off her hat hurriedly and ran down to the water.

The girls on the sand, some distance from Mrs. Teets, had secured a life-preserver from a boat nearby and had tossed it to the person in the water, but their aim was poor and the preserver fell many feet short, and then floated on its way. The sister of the drowning girl waded to her neck from the point of sand and then screamed.

Mrs. Teets splashed in, clothes and all. She had figured in rescues before. Just a year ago, when she was Miss Mineola Lane, she went to the rescue of Miss Lulu London, a school friend, in the Hudson, and Miss London caught her about the neck and both narrowly escaped drowning.

Catching sight of the life-preserver Mrs. Teets made for it and pushed it before her. On reaching the girl Mrs. Teets placed her on the life-preserver and pushed her toward shore.

Fifty yards distant a rowboat was moored, and for this Mrs. Teets steered. It was a hard struggle and against the tide, but by slow degrees she got the girl to the boat. The victim had just strength enough to aid in getting herself aboard. Then Mrs. Teets took the oars and rowed ashore. There she was met by the half dozen frantic girls in bathing suits.

The girl whose life had been saved was Miss Louise K. Hermann, 18 years old, of Englewood Cliff, N. J. She and her sister and several companions were bathing off the point of sand when she slipped out into deep water and was unable to get back. None of the others in the party could swim.

"You girls should be more careful," cautioned Mrs. Teets. "Don't ever go out too far in a strong tide. It's always dangerous. Just look what you have made me do. I have ruined one of my prettiest gowns. Now go on home, girls, and be careful in the future," and Mrs. Teets leaped up the sands and in a few seconds was in her own home explaining matters to her mother.

"That wasn't anything," said Mrs. Teets. "You know I once swam the Hudson river. I'm not afraid of water. I like it. It's all very easy to bring a girl like Miss Hermann to shore."

WOMEN IN THE NEWS

MURDER MYSTERY MAY BE CLEARED BY WOMAN

Sacramento Resident Expected to Solve Mt. Tamalpais Crime

SANTA ROSA, July 24.—A Finnish woman of Sacramento, whose name District Attorney Lea of Sonoma county is unwilling to make public, may prove the means of solving the problem of identifying the remains of the young woman found in a secluded spot on Mount Tamalpais on February 3, 1910, the discovery of which gave rise to the baffling and as yet unsolved mystery, and of connecting her murder with Lewis C. Chisholm.

In the event that the unidentified woman at Sacramento is able to recognize any of the articles found on the mountain as having belonged to her missing friend, Miss Minnie Passi, by means of a telegraphic description to be sent to her at Lea's direction from San Rafael, she will be taken to the Marin county town to view the clothing and jewelry found on the corpse, which have been held for identification during the last two years.

This woman accompanied Miss Passi from Finland to this country and knew of an acquaintance which Miss Passi had with Chisholm, the confessed murderer of John D. Powell. She knew that Miss Passi left Sacramento during the summer of 1909 with Chisholm and that she never returned and has never communicated with her friends since. Chisholm returned to Sacramento a few months later, but when called upon to tell of the whereabouts of Miss Passi gave no exact information, telling several conflicting stories.

He stated on one occasion that she was in a hospital at Portland and on other occasions said that she was in Reno, and again that she was in San Francisco. It is on account of these conflicting statements and because of the peculiar circumstances surrounding Miss Passi's complete removal from the circle of her acquaintances that District Attorney Lea was led to believe that there might be some connection between the discovery of the murdered woman's body on the lonely mountain side and the disappearance of Miss Passi after last being seen in the company of a man who has since confessed to the commission of at least one murder.

Edna to Return. PARIS, July 24.—Miss Edna Goodrich, whose original plans were to spend the summer in and about Paris, is preparing to sail for New York immediately.

The sudden change in plans of the actress is believed to be due to the California litigation of her former husband, Nat Goodwin, who has filed a suit to regain possession of property signed over to her before their marriage.

Death Pact Kept. MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., July 24.—Four months after drawing up a letter explaining their reasons for committing suicide, Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Crane, who held a prominent social position in this city for many years, paid to effect their tragic agreement last Wednesday. Clashed in each other's arms, dressed in the clothing they had worn at their wedding, they were found dead yesterday in their beautiful home.

On a chair beside the bed were two glasses which had contained carbolic acid. On that evening in the mansion next door there was a party.

A letter found by the bedside addressed to the executor, E. M. Shultz, revealed their bitterness against former friends who had not helped them in their need.

Cuts Cupid's Toils With Bayonet

BERLIN.—The extent to which a handsome uniform continues to bewitch the German maiden and the sometimes unfortunate results for the wearer of the uniform were strikingly exemplified in a case which will shortly concern the military courts. A few nights ago a tremendous disturbance, great concourse of people, shouts, groans and cheers broke the quiet of the Fietwell strasse, in the neighborhood of the Potsdamer railway station in Berlin. Police appeared and soon discovered that the screams came from a flat on the third floor, occupied by Frau Caroline Wagner.

Excited people appeared in scanty clothing at the doors of their apartments and readily informed the police that Frau Wagner, a lady of prepossessing appearance, some fortune and only 30 years old, was engaged to a handsome musketeer of the Forty-eighth infantry regiment. They said he was a tall, handsome lover, and looked a picture in his blue coat with red trimmings and gold buttons. His name was Julius Brucke, and he ought to have rejoined his regiment on the previous Thursday. The police went upstairs, and presently bursting open Frau Wagner's door found the young man lying exhausted in a basket chair and bleeding from a nasty cut on the face.

COWERS IN CORNER. Covering in a corner was the stalwart musketeer, with a bayonet in his hand and look of sheer terror on his face. He also was hurt, but apparently his wounds were scratches of finger nails. By degrees the police extracted the story.

It seems that Frau Wagner could not endure the idea of her handsome lover going back to barracks and leaving her, so at first she persuaded him to extend his leave for a few days without asking regimental permission. Then a telegram arrived from the regiment instructing him to come back at once or take the consequences. The musketeer got a fright and wanted to quit quickly, but Frau Wagner seized his uniform, carried it away and hid it. The unfortunate musketeer begged, implored and finally began to threaten. Frau Wagner put her arms round his neck and told him it would be all right. But the musketeer said he must go, with his uniform or without it. He picked up his bayonet, which Frau Wagner had omitted to hide, and made for the door of the flat. The lady threw herself against the door and announced that if he went it would be only by first removing her. Then the musketeer, with horrible visions of cells and bread and water for weeks, lost his temper and made a pretense to slash at her with his bayonet. The woman promptly dashed at him with her nails, shouting: "Coward, would you strike a woman? Now you shan't go!"

The musketeer, however, lifted his bayonet and hit her with the flat of it. He injured her cheek and the sight of blood seemed to rouse the animal in him, for he proceeded to cut at her with the bayonet until she sank bleeding and exhausted into the chair. Meanwhile her screams had brought the police, who promptly took her off to the accident ward of the nearest hospital. The musketeer surrendered himself to the military authorities and was placed under arrest at the guardhouse at the Brandeburg Gate until he could be conveyed back to his regiment.

Mrs. Speyer, Horses' Friend, Has Great Many Philanthropies

MRS. JAMES SPEYER, wife of the well-known banker.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Mrs. James Speyer, the wife of the New York banker of that name, is very much interested in various philanthropic movements. Every year Mrs. Speyer organizes the work horse parade in New York, which, through her efforts and a large corps of assistants, is made one of the biggest and most interesting of the year's public pageants.

Her interest in the conditions of the police and firemen of the city is also notable and a distinctive mark of the appreciation of these public service men of her work in their behalf was manifested when she sailed for Europe the other day when delegations of firemen and policemen went to the pier to bid her good-bye.

FENCING GIRL SUES MILLIONAIRE. NEW YORK.—That a "great scandal" will follow the presentation of a bill of particulars in the suit brought by Beatrice De Acosta, better known as "Beatrice Brevaine, the fencing girl," against Joseph G. Butler Jr., the Youngstown, O., steel manufacturer, was the assertion today of attorneys in the case.

The suit does not directly concern Butler, it is explained, but a third person whose name is suppressed. Justice Gavegan has granted an order for the required bill of particulars.

Beatrice De Acosta, who is well known on the stage, was named as correspondent by Mrs. Aurel Burke-Rocke-Batony in her successful suit for divorce.

She sues Butler for $50,000 alleging that on April 28, 1910, Butler agreed to pay her the money if she would sign a quit claim and abandon a suit she was about to bring against a third person. She did so, she says in her complaint, and now Butler refuses to "make good" the money.

Joseph G. Butler Jr. is president of the Bessemer Pig Iron Association, with his office at Youngstown, and is connected with many other corporations. Beatrice De Acosta, has been married five times and her fifth husband is Jose Mattos De Acosta to whom she was married last year.

One of her husbands was Emile Drysdale, a lace importer, who got a divorce in 1906. De Acosta disappeared last February and his wife had him arrested for non-support, but failed to appear against him in the domestic relations court.

She said then that her husband had deserted her after a trip to Ohio.

BRAINERD, Minn.—A one-year-old wolf which Mrs. Emma Johnson of Klumbury has owned, petted and fed from the time he was a very young cub, yesterday turned on his mistress as she caught his chain when he ran into the woods and tore her left shoulder, arms, hands and feet with his teeth, and endeavored to bite her throat. Her latest appeared in one of the San Francisco newspapers on July 4. During her leisure moments she writes either on her porch or under a shady elm tree, where she communes with nature.

VACATION DAYS ARE ABOUT OVER

The Public Schools of Oakland Open for Fall Term Next Monday

The summer vacation for the boys and girls of the public schools of this city will culminate next Monday morning, when all the schools will open for the fall term. It is stated that the registration will be as great as that of last year, and that the high schools will be crowded.

Many of the schoolhouses will be repaired and several rooms will be added to the Manual Training and Commercial High school, Twelfth and Market streets. The showers will be installed in the field house of the Oakland High school athletic grounds in the near future. The work will be rushed.

The requisition for the showers advocated by Principal Keyes of the Oakland High school met with the approval of the board at its first official meeting. The matter was considered one of importance to the estate as well as to the students, who are looking forward to the completion of the showers.

SLEEPS THROUGH BAD FALL. HAMILTON, O.—Ruth Bacon, 14 years old, a nonambulant, although her ankles were broken by a fall from her bedroom window to the pavement, slept on.

The frantic barking of Bob, the girl's pet fox terrier, awakened Frank Bacon, the child's father, and as he tenderly picked his daughter up, she said in her sleep: "Never mind, mamma, I'll get the 'killing'."

WORK STARTS ON THE NEW $1,300,000 CITY HALL

STEEL PACT WAS IRON GLAD

Copy of Agreement Filed With Investigators; Interesting Document

Discloses Methods Adopted by Big Business Firms in Pursuit of Trade

WASHINGTON, July 24.—When the House steel trust committee resumed its session today, Chairman Stanley put into the record a copy of an iron clad agreement by which the steel plate association of the United States was entered into November 9, 1900. The agreement has been in possession of Chairman Stanley for some time and a number of witnesses have been questioned regarding it. Eleven great steel companies entered into the agreement and apportioned among themselves all shipments of steel plates. The steel company that dared violate agreement laid itself liable to heavy penalties and it is said fines of $1000 frequently were imposed on members of the association when complaints were filed with the executive committee.

Each firm was requested to make monthly sworn statements relating to shipments, rolling production, etc., and any member who had sold more than his apportioned amount was required to pay a penalty on each pound of such excess, the money thus collected being apportioned among the members who did not ship up to their allotted share.

THE ROSTER.

The agreement showed the following apportionment of shipments allowable by the various companies party to the agreement:

Carnegie Steel Co. 40.25 per cent
Jones Laughlin, limited 4.75; Illinois Steel Co., 11.00; Crucible Steel Co., of America 4.40; Otis Steel Company 2.50; Tidewater Steel Co., 3.00; Lukens Iron and Steel Company 7.50; Worth Brothers Company 7.00; Central Iron and Steel Company 8.00; American Steel and Wire Company 5.50.

Glasgow Iron Company, to the extent of sales and up to 40,000 tons, should they be able to accomplish them prior to December 31, 1901.

PAID BY CHECK.

Debts of members of the association were required to be paid by check drawn to the order of T. Mellon and Sons, Pittsburgh, to the credit of the association. The agreement included exemption tonnage provisions, and at the end of each year the commissioner of the association balanced the pool between the members, but any member unable to produce his full allotment at the end of the year, forfeited such unproduced tonnage, which was developed pro-rata among the members of the pool.

Another provision of the agreement required that "all plates shipped into the states bordering on the Pacific Coast and to be actually used in the territory into which it was shipped, and also plates actually exported for use outside the limits of the United States be reported to a commissioner, together with bills of lading, or other evidences of transportation, for actual use abroad, satisfactory to him, (said evidence to be confidential and not to be circulated among members)."

Such tonnage was to be deducted from the members report and the agreed pool tax charged.

The agreement also bound the members to make sales between parties to the agreement at pool prices.

AGED COUPLE DIE IN SUICIDE PACT

Woman Greets Death Arrayed in Tarnished Bridal Finery

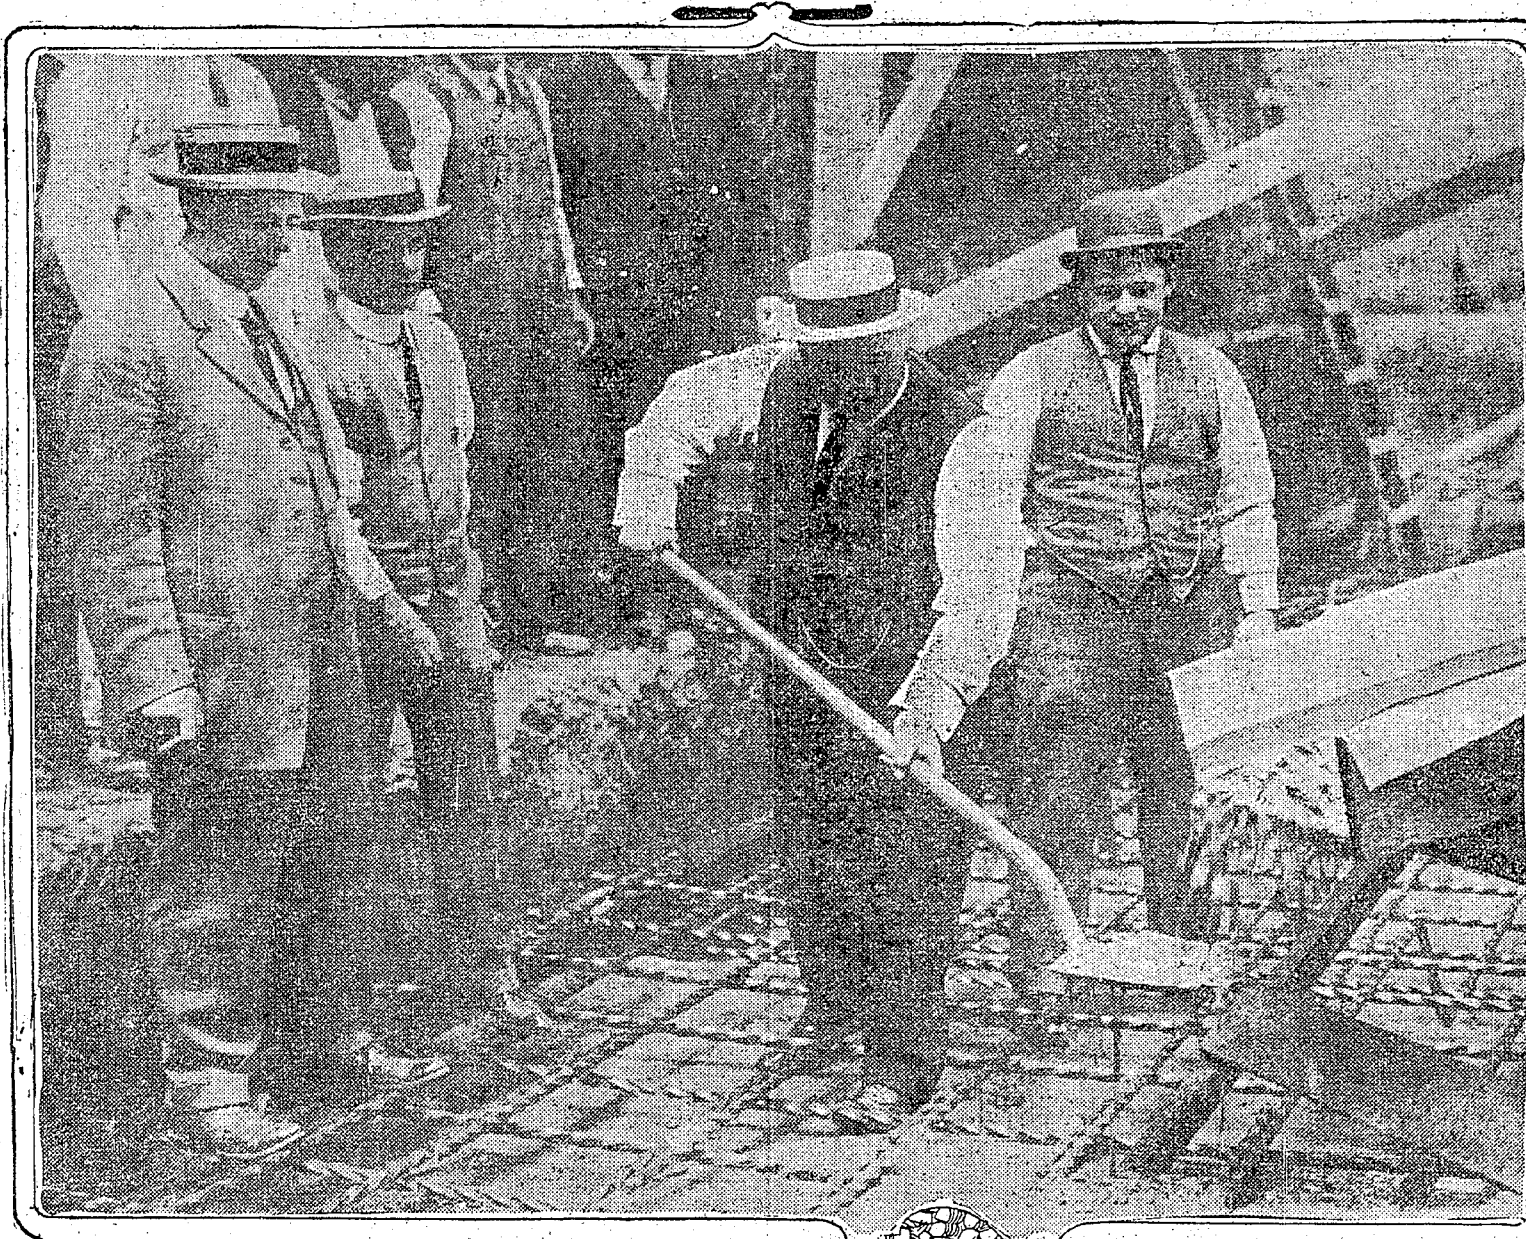

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., July 24.—Edward D. Cranso and wife, a middle-aged couple, were found dead in their home yesterday afternoon. They had carried out a suicide pact by drinking poison after making all arrangements for a funeral. Mrs. Cranso was dressed in her bridal clothes that she had saved for more than a score of years. It is the coroner's opinion that the suicide was carried out at least five days ago. A letter was left complaining that poverty had driven them to self-destruction.

Goddess of Liberty Badly In Need of New Hobbles

NEW YORK, July 24.—The Goddess of Liberty, after a quarter of a century spent buffeting the winds of New York harbor from her pedestal at Bedloe's Island, is badly in need of a new gown. MAYOR MOTT FIRST MAN ON JOB LEADS A LONG LINE OF LABORERS

Work was begun today on the foundation for the new $3,300,000 city hall. The upper picture shows Mayor Mott handling the first shovelful of cement. Reading from left to right: Commissioner Harry S. Anderson, J. J. Donovan, superintendent of construction, Mayor Mott and Superintendent W. Walker for the Roebing Construction Co. The lower picture shows the Mayor dumping the first load of rock into the cement mixing machine. On his right is General Superintendent C. H. Johnson.

He Places Initial Shovelful of Cement

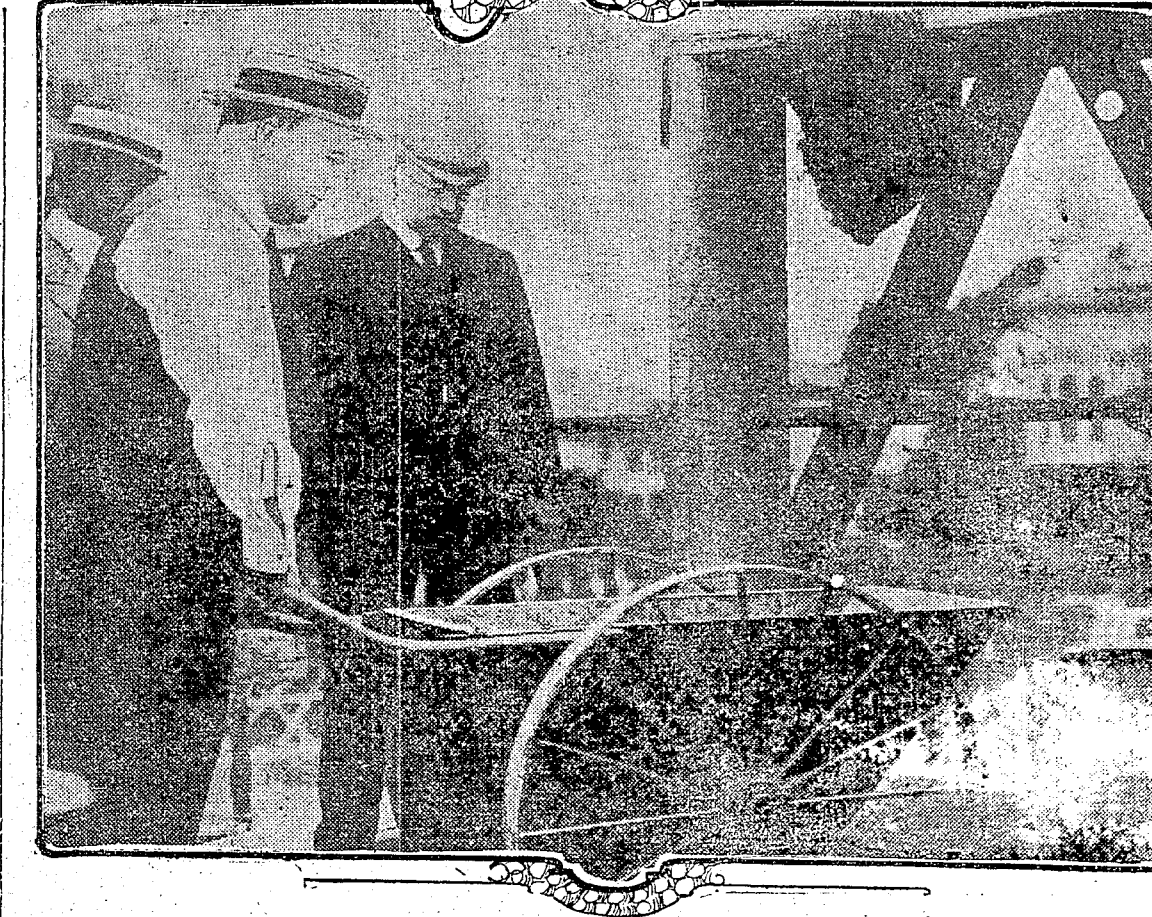

With the placing of the first shovelful of concrete in the Washington and Fourteenth street corner of the new city hall by Mayor Frank K. Mott this morning, actual construction was commenced on the seventeen-story structure which is to cost the city of Oakland $1,300,000. The actual commencement of work fulfilled the promise Mayor Mott made to the city when he took office at the beginning of his first term, and fulfilled a dream which inspired the mayor to work for office early in his career.

A large crowd gathered along the Fourteenth street frontage of the big excavation for the municipal edifice to see Mayor Mott start work on the structure. City officials were present, and from the windows of the mayor's office on the second story of the city hall Mrs. Frank K. Mott watched the proceedings and waved her handkerchief to Mayor Mott as he dumped the first wheelbarrow of broken rock into the mixing hopper, and as he shoveled the mixed cement into place in the excavation.

SMILES AND WORKS.

With a genial smile on his face, and his coat off, to permit of rapid action with the shovel and wheelbarrow, Mayor Mott took his place in the lead of the procession of laborers with wheelbarrows filled with broken rock, sand and cement. Mayor Mott emptied the first three barrow loads into the hopper on a level with the street, and then climbed down the ladder to the lower level of the excavation, where the mixed concrete was being deposited from the hopper by means of a short trough. There he waded into the work like an old hand, and shoveled the first concrete into the extreme corner of the excavation, over which two months from the starting of the work it is probable the corner stone will be set in place with appropriate ceremonies.

"This brings to fruition the work of many years," declared Mayor Mott this morning after placing the concrete. The mayor stood leaning on his shovel near the false work supporting the big hopper and concrete mixer. "When I went into office for the first time I promised that Oakland should have a city hall worthy of this municipality. I have worked since that time to make the promise good."

PROUD OF WORK.

"This has been no mean achievement. It is one of which I am personally proud, and this is an occasion that fills me with an emotion of gratitude to the people and gratification over this work and accomplishment, that I find difficult to express."

"The accomplishment of this task could never have been consumed without the faith and backing of the people of Oakland. They have realized the responsibilities of their position as having in their keeping the future of one of the greatest cities of the Pacific coast."

IS THE FOUNDATION.

The work started this morning is the foundation work on the new city hall. The contract for the concrete foundations and construction was let to the Roebing Construction Company for $104,000. This work will take a little more than a month, and by that time the steel grillage beams will have arrived from the East, and will be in course of fashioning at the shops of the Judson Iron Works.

J. J. Donovan, superintendent of construction, and local representative of the New York architects, declared this morning that he anticipated that there would be no break or pause in the work of construction from now on till the building is ready for occupancy in about eighteen months from today. It is probable that the cornerstone will be laid on Admission Day with appropriate ceremonies.

THOSE IN CHARGE.

The work is in charge of Superintendent J. J. Donovan, assisted by Inspector E. Zeltfuchs. Commissioner of Public Works Harry S. Anderson has general supervision. For the Roebing Construction Company, which has this particular contract, General Superintendent C. H. Johnson and Superintendents W. Walker and M. Pitzer have charge. There will be 350 tons of reinforcing steel to tie the concrete. This will necessitate 4000 barrels of cement and 4500 cubic yards of broken rock and sand. This will form a solid slab of reinforced concrete two feet four inches in thickness as an earthquake shock absorber and base for the building.

Labor Leaders Enter Pleas of Not Guilty

WASHINGTON, July 24.—In lieu of formal answers to the contempt charges against them, Messrs. Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, late today entered oral pleas of not guilty before Justice Wright of the District Supreme Court.

They also entered a plea of immunity under the statute of limitations and attacked the court for not having instituted the proceedings within the statutory time limit. Further hearing was postponed for ten days.

STAMBUL IS SWEEPED BY FLAMES

Two Square Miles of Ancient Turkish City Devastated by Fire

Disaster Greatest Experienced Since Bera Conflagration in 1870

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24.—The conflagration which started yesterday afternoon during the festivities in celebration of the granting of the new constitution, continued until three o'clock, by which time the flames were under control, practically because there was no further fuel in their path.

The disaster is the greatest since the fire in Bera, the European quarter in 1870. It is believed that the present fire was the work of political incendiaries. It broke out simultaneously at several points in Stambul, the ancient city. The most formidable blaze flared up near the ministry of war and was borne by a strong north wind through the residential section to the southern coast. From the square in front of the war ministry, east of the center of Stambul, to the sea of Marmora, on the south, practically nothing was left standing.

DEVASTATION GREAT.

Two square miles of the city are devastated. It is roughly estimated that over 5000 houses were destroyed. The great number of these were wooden buildings, but several important stone structures were ruined. The union quarter across the Golden Horn to the north and east, was at no time in danger owing to the contrary direction of the wind. Stambul, having the sea of Marmora on the south and Bosphorus on the east, with the Golden Horn, an inlet of the Bosphorus, on the north, has a sea front of eight miles. On the west it is walled. This district constitutes the Seraglio, the Sultan's palace, the principal mosques, the museums, the public offices, the baths and the bazars, and the remains of ancient Constantinople. Here chiefly reside the Turks, Jews, Armenians and Greeks.

PEACEMAKER CUT IN PLAYING ROLE

Artilleryman Finds That Three Is a Crowd Even in Quarrel

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—As the result, he claims, of being the third party to a dispute and endeavoring to act the role of peacemaker, Joseph Walsh, a private in the Twenty-fifth Coast Artillery, stationed at Fort Miley, was stabbed in the left shoulder at an early hour this morning. Walsh was sitting in the restaurant of Tonic Ray, a Japanese, of 1208 Stockton street, when he says a man entered and began to quarrel with the proprietor. He interfered and Ray, drawing a penknife, stabbed him in the left shoulder. Policemen Clark and Kerrigan were summoned, sent Walsh to the Central Emergency hospital and arrested Ray, who was charged with assault with a deadly weapon at the city prison.

COLLAPSED BLEACHERS DESTROYED BY BLAZE

NEWARK, O., July 24.—Following closely yesterday afternoon's accident at the Newark Central League Baseball park, in which a portion of the bleachers collapsed, injuring thirty persons, some seriously, the baseball company suffered another loss early today when fire, believed to be of incendiary origin, destroyed the grandstand and all the club's equipment. There was no insurance. Work has been started to get the grounds ready to resume games, and it is believed that they will be ready within a week.

WILL TAKE X-RAY PHOTO OF ATTORNEY CAMPBELL'S SPINE

Physicians Declare That Injured Lawyer Has Shown Much Improvement and Hold Hope of Recovery

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—Attorney J. C. Campbell, who was severely injured on Friday night on the Solano, is gradually improving and the report of his physicians at noon was most encouraging. If he continues to go ahead with the same rapidity which has characterized his improvement during the last twenty-four hours, he will soon be out of danger.

"Our patient is much better today," said Dr. Winslow Anderson, "and the danger is gradually lessening. There seems to be no probability of pneumonia setting in, and our examination today shows that Mr. Campbell is getting along nicely."

VEDRINES IS YET IN THE LEAD

French Aviator Heads Birdmen In Around Britain Air Race

Covered Hendon-Edinburgh Lap, 343 Miles, in 6 Hours Actual Time

EDINBURGH, Scotland, July 24.—J. Vedrines, the French aviator, in a Morane-Borel monoplane, maintains the lead in the circuit of Great Britain aviation race for the Daily Mail's prize. He covered the distance of 343 miles from Hendon to Edinburgh this morning in less than six hours of actual flight time. Beaumont followed Vedrines closely.

Weymann, still experiencing bad luck, was held up at Hendon, awaiting the arrival of a new propeller. It was noon before Weymann had equipped his machine with a new propeller. Then he started on a trial flight in a wind. His biplane was plucked by a branch, but he made a safe landing. Later word was received here that the American had again headed for this city, going with the speed of a pigeon.

Great crowds assembled at the aerodrome at Hendon at 4 o'clock this morning to witness the getaway on the second stage from Hendon to Edinburgh, with intermediate stops at Harrogate and Newcastle. Through a mistake of the time Beaumont, who should have started second, got away first. Vedrines, after a few excited gestures, sallied away a few seconds later. Thousands witnessed a splendid spectacle as the two airmen sped across the aerodrome and were lost to sight. Beaumont, who was flying higher, was quickly overtaken and when Harrogate, 82 miles from Hendon, was reached, Vedrines had gained another few minutes. This was repeated in the stages from Harrogate to Newcastle, 45 miles, and from Newcastle to Edinburgh—83 miles.

WINS A PRIZE.

Valentine, the Englishman, who is making a bid for the prize against the Frenchman, was third to arrive at Harrogate. He won the prize of silver plate offered for the first Englishman to complete this stage. He was delayed for an hour at Harrogate and made a slow trip to Newcastle, having by mistake landed outside the official landing place. Captain Cody also reached Harrogate.

Of the thirteen others who completed the first stage from Brooklands to Hendon on Saturday, was C. C. Patterson in a "baby" Grahame-White biplane, and Lieutenant Reynolds, retired. Audmars withdrew after making three starts at Hendon, and the rest either failed to get away or desecrated before making Harrogate. C. P. Pixton came down three miles south of Harrogate and smashed his machine, which probably has put him out of the race. The others met with minor accidents, but will continue.

The official time between Hendon and Harrogate are: Vedrines, 3 hours 2 minutes 4 seconds; Beaumont, 3 hours 7 minutes 54 seconds; Valentine, 3 hours 39 minutes 28 seconds.

WHEN IS COED NOT A COED? THAT IS THE QUESTION

"Summer Coeds and Summer
Are Not," Writes a Mere
Male Student

AND THEREBY HANGS

"Tobacco Odored" Youth and
"Sob. Squad" Voice Opinions On Subject

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, July 24.—When is a co-ed not a co-ed? Should youths with tobacco-odored breath be permitted in class rooms? Should the tobacco-users, if admitted at all, and if kept in the rear of the room out of consideration for the co-ed, have their view of the instructor shut off by the co-ed's high forehead? These questions, uppermost at the summer school, have assumed a queer jumble, and their unusual interpretation is being set forth each day in the newspaper which chronicles the doings of the summer professors and students, and to which Chester Rowell's classes in Journalism are contributing. It all started with a pun evolved by a mere male student, who wrote on the North Hall bulletin board: "Summer co-eds and summer not." Which might mean almost anything or nothing at all. But a co-ed, alleged or real, accepted the challenge which she seemed to discover in the play upon words. She replied in the summer school newspaper with the following contribution: "The question is not whether or not she would have her say about the cigarette-smoking male student. She should not have it, for she has the needed advantages of education, but would relate him to the rear of the class room—out of smell, if not out of sight."

THE COUNTER BLAST.
Then a counter blast in the next issue of the college paper from a cigarette smoker. He would gladly go away head and sit in the seats behind the co-eds if the latter with their high hats, would not put him in the full benefits of an education by eliminating his view of the instructor. "All of which has brought forth another communication today on the saving grace of a proper sense of humor. It is a sharp directed at the co-ed, and is headed, 'With Apologies to the Sob Squad.' 'Subscriber' writes: 'Should the summer co-ed feel riled up at the bon-mot of this youth, who probably chuckled more over the word play it contained than at any pointlessness it may have had. "If humor is as disagreeable as cigarette smoke," the last word is expected to come from the co-ed side of the controversy."

GIVES THEORY OF
DIVORCE ACTIVITY

U. of C. Professor Attributes it to Self-Assertion of Womankind

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, July 24.—"The activity of the divorce courts is largely due to the self-assertion of certain legitimate rights on the part of womankind." This view of the divorce situation, enunciated by T. T. Waterman, head of the department of anthropology in the summer school, caused members of his class to exhibit extraordinary interest during his lecture on "The Married Life of Primitive People." From a dissertation on the marital habits of the cave-dwellers, he suddenly switched to modern times, and branded as false the popular impression that the operation of the divorce mill is fast disrupting the social organization of the nation.

After his statement that the contest of woman for her rights was making business for lawyers and the divorce courts, Waterman added:

"It is purely a natural outgrowth of our rapid progress toward a more enlightened social state."

"The question is, by no means of alarming importance, but is quite capable of taking care of itself."

PROGRESS MADE IN
DYNAMITE CASES

Mrs. McManigal, Who Is in Hospital, Said to Be Improving

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Bert H. Conners, F. Ira Bender and A. B. Maple, union men, who were indicted by the grand jury last week on charges of conspiracy to wreck the country hall of reds with dynamite, will be arraigned next Wednesday. The present charges against the men are substantially the same as those contained in the original indictments, which were quashed ten days ago on motion of their defense.

Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the McNamara brothers, returned today from San Francisco, where he spent several days in conference with labor leaders there in reference to evidence he expects to procure from that city. He had nothing to say upon his return.

It was announced by his associates, however, that a bill of exceptions to the decision of Judge Bordwell overruling the motions to quash the McNamara indictments would be filed July 31.

This bill of exceptions constitutes another technical move in connection with the admitted plan of the defense to create as many grounds for appeal as possible.

Attorney Job Hartman, one of Darrow's associates, said today that reports from the hospital say Mrs. McManigal, who was stricken with nervous prostration last week, was slightly improved today. He declined to comment upon the statement of Mrs. McManigal's friends that she was threatened with paralysis and probably would not be able to assume her role as one of the principal witnesses for the defense at the trial October 11.

James Bryce, British ambassador to Washington, has instructed A. Leslie Best, assistant British consul here, to represent Pryce when the charge of violation of the neutrality laws is heard in the federal court here.

Pryce's case, together with similar ones against "General" Jack R. Mosby and James B. Laffin, Arizona "rough rider," Mosby's adjutant, was scheduled to come up before Judge Weiborn today.

WHO WON BATTLE
NARRAGANSETT BAY

United States Navy Awaits with Breathless Interest the Judgment

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The Navy Department will soon announce which fleet won the "battle of Narragansett bay."

Rear Admiral Osterhaus, who commanded one of the fleets, and Commander Eberle, who directed the other, each claims to have gained theoretical possession of Long Island sound. Each claims he annihilated his "enemy."

From the official reports of the umpires soon to reach him, Referee Seymour will decide which fleet won. Interests in the theoretical naval battle are very keen and it is not expected that the officers and crews of the "annihilated fleet" will be willing to bury their claims of victory under official reports.

BILLERICA, Mass., July 24.—The "Blue" army of defense is advancing on the "Reds," who are entrenched at Lynnfield. The "Blues" are conducting their campaign according to the most modern methods. Old lumbering army wagon and army mules are lacking and in their place powerful automobile trucks hurry the supplies and artillery from place to place. The staff officers perform their duties from the comfortable seats of big touring cars and most of the scouting duty is performed on motorcycles.

The ballot and American citizenship are a power in the hands of the so-called stronger sex; how much more is it needed in the hands of the so-called weaker sex? That is perhaps the reason that German nuns, before returning to their native land, and also American nuns, take out papers of American citizenship before they go to Europe to do the noble work to which they have consecrated their lives. It means protection under the flag of the grandest nation on the face of the earth. And may the beloved stars and stripes wave over the free and loyal women of California on October 10, 1911.

TEN-YEAR-OLD CHILD
ARRIVES FROM MEMPHIS

Mistake Over Telegram was Cause of Some Confusion for Few Hours

ALAMEDA, July 24.—Ten-year-old Esther Cohen, who had traveled alone all the way from Memphis, Tennessee, to join her brother, Samuel Cohen, principal of the Porter school of this city, felt all the pangs of homesickness and loneliness yesterday afternoon when she stepped off the Overland Limited at the Oakland mole and found no one to meet her.

HAD ELK'S CARD.
With her childish brown eyes opened wide with fear and crying softly, the little passenger enlisted the sympathies of more than one passenger. In her hand she held a blue card which is owned by every member of the Elk's lodge, bearing the name of her brother.

P. J. O'Brien, an Elk of Chicago, took the little southern stranger in charge and went to the Hotel St. Francis with her. Her brother was telephoned for, but could not be found at his home that evening, and it was not until the next morning that a message reached him telling him that the child was safe in San Francisco and anxious to see him.

MISTAKE OCCURRED.
The mistake arose over the fact that the girl's family in Memphis had sent a telegram to Cohen, stating that she would be there on July 21. After sending the telegram it was decided that she would start the day after.

After giving the little stranger into the keeping of a maid at the St. Francis, her benefactor went out and purchased a number of toys and candy, returning with his arms laden with presents.

The child was quiet and assured that her brother would meet her in the morning. Jumping into his arms on his arrival, she was hugged and kissed.

"Oh, they have all been so good to me. Mr. O'Brien bought me candy. I was afraid he would not like me. He is just what I needed. He is certainly cooler."

The southern stranger won all of the passengers on the train on the way and by her polite southern manner and speech.

The new school buildings in the elementary schools have been made and the new Washington and Haight schools have been completed. Two new temporary class buildings will be erected at the high school to accommodate the large increase in attendance that is expected.

A special meeting of the Board of Education will be held tomorrow night to act on the acceptance of the Washington school, which has just been completed. Many residents are inspecting the school structures, which are handsome and modern.

Duffey Homestead Destroyed
Sunday; Explosion of Wine
Casks Causes Fire

BERKELEY, July 24.—The old Duffey home, a landmark at Third street and Ashby avenue, was destroyed yesterday afternoon by a fire which began in a stable on the premises. The dwelling was unoccupied and a band of gypsies was quartered in the barn. In their rush from the structure when the fire broke out several children of the band became lost, and before they were found, a little later, it was feared by their parents that they had died in the flames.

An inadequate water supply prevented the fire department from saving the residence and barn, both of which were totally destroyed. The Duffey house was a two-story building, erected more than fifty years ago.

STUDENTS PLAN TRIP TO YOSEMITE VALLEY

Furniture for New Doe Library
Arrives From the East

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, July 24.—The chorus concert tomorrow night will be given in Harmon gymnasium instead of Hearst hall as was first announced.

An immense stage is being especially constructed on one side of the gymnasium to accommodate the large body of singers which will participate in the concert.

Among the numbers to be given are various types of compositions ranging from a lullaby from Chapman's own works to the inflammatory "The Lord is Great."

Other selections will be "The Barefoot Boy" and the sextette from "Lucia." There is no admission fee, and the public is invited.

TO VISIT YOSEMITE.
An excursion to the Yosemite Valley is being arranged for the students of the summer session. The exact date of the trip has not been decided upon as yet, but it will probably be on the Saturday or Sunday immediately following the close of the session.

Owing to the fact that this is the most unusual season that has been seen in the valley for 25 years or more, it is expected that many of the students and their friends will desire to take advantage of the opportunity to see the valley during a high water year, when the falls are at their best. It is also expected that many of the students will take advantage of the chance to join the college party.

LIBRARY IS READY.
The furniture for the new Doe library has arrived and is being placed in such a manner that the straight lines of the new filing cases and reading tables are of heavy oak, of massive proportions, and are ready to receive the new furniture. The furniture was ordered from Chicago early in the year, and is being manufactured especially for the Doe library.

Professor C. W. Woodworth of the department of agriculture has issued a bulletin from the State Experiment station, containing a copy of the new California insecticide law. The new law requires that all insecticides be registered on or before the first day of July next.

ANGELS GET ONE.

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Vernon and the Angels broke even in two exciting games, the Tigers winning in the morning in the ninth inning by a 2 to 1 score, and the Angels getting the matinee affair, 7 to 3, in thirteen innings.

League president Graham and daughter were present at both games and they certainly had all the excitement necessary, for both games were thrillers. Both Raleigh and Criger pitched fine ball, but Raleigh tired in the eighth in the morning game and Brackenridge pitched the ninth inning.

Hitt and Delhi were the twirlers in the afternoon, and both pitched about the same kind of ball until the thirteenth, when Hitt blew up and was handed rot-

OH, WASN'T IT AWFUL!

PORTLAND, Ore., July 24.—Elmer Koestner begged for a chance to work against the Seals and Manager McClellie, who had planned to pitch Ben Henderson, substituted the silent one at the last minute, and Koestner plastered the visitors with a 4 to 2 whitewashing, which gave Portland the long end of the series by five games to one.

Frank Browning seemed to have lost temporarily his cunning, so effectually used against Portland in times past, for the McCredettes found him successfully in two innings and bunched couplets of aces both times. On the other hand, Koestner showed himself to be master of the situation all the way. Koestner allowed but four hits, and two of them came in one inning. Score:

HIGH CLASS BILL AT BELL INCLUDES VARIOUS FEATURES ACROBATIC TO GRAND OPERA

EDMUND STANLEY and company in "A Royal Romance" at the Bell.

The Bell, San Pablo avenue's attractive theater, has another good bill this week, one even above the usual high average in quality. The management has been literally outdoing itself these days in an effort to present to its patrons the best that can be found, and this week has provided for a headliner, an act to appeal to the most critical taste.

This is the grand opera trio, headed by Edmund Stanley, which presents a number of the classics of the grand opera stage in a way that should commend itself to the hearer. Moreover, it evidently did, to judge by the way in which the act was received. The trio is composed of Miss Hortensia Mazzaretti, a French contralto, and Miss Bells Story, a Scottish soprano, in addition to Stanley. The title of the act is "A Royal Romance," which is used as an effective background for the interpolation of various acts from the standard grand operas.

An equally meritorious number on the bill was the presentation of the story of "Ben Hur," General Lew Wallace's masterpiece of life among the early Christians. In this pictorial presentation of the work its readers and admirers may see all the familiar characters appear upon the screen. The pictures were taken with the utmost care and attention to detail, and present in a beautiful form a fascinating story, which has been received with marked appreciation. It is claimed that the reproduction was given 400 times in Boston alone.

The other acts on the bill tended more to mirth than any other emotion, and included Somers and Storke in a lively and amusing sketch called "Jackson's Honeymoon," and Roth and Pearl in another skit with the title of "Forcing an Opportunity," both of which were cordially received. Then there is an aggregation of dancers, names not given, being billed solely as Al White's "Four Dancing Bugs," who should certainly have their names in big type on the program, for they dance in a thoroughly clever manner.

The bill was rounded out to a most satisfactory entertainment by a clever acrobatic act, presented by the "Four Londons," who did some difficult stunts in a seemingly easy manner, and several of the usual high class motion pictures.

CANAL WORK TOO FAST FOR CONGRESS

Policy Governing Operation
Must Be Decided On in Hurry

WASHINGTON, July 24.—One of the most important questions confronting government heads concerns the policy of operating the Panama canal. The great question being rushed to Congress faster than it has been possible to rush Congress to a sense of the necessity for providing laws and regulations relating to the maintenance and operation well in advance of its opening to commerce.

It is now too late for Congress to take action at the present session, but if matters do not crystallize next winter the delay will be calamitous. Happily, however, there is a promise of action at the regular session, which will not be entirely too late.

A year ago, President Taft began prodding leaders in Congress to get busy with problems that in their peculiar way are even more important than the work of construction. On January 1, 1910, according to the existing law, the President of the United States is to ask for the assembling of the fleets of the world in Hampton roads. After certain ceremonies have been gone through with the fleets are to pass through the Panama canal on their way to San Francisco.

If anything happened so that the fleets were in going through, Colonel Goethals pointed out to the commission the Panama canal would be damaged; and to guard against that contingency he wanted time for tuning up all machinery and for perfecting the organization. He stated when he was here last winter before the commission that the shipping interests of the world required eighteen months' notice at least of what tolls were going to be charged in order that they might make their contracts. At his last appearance he said he had ascertained from transportation experts that the shipping interests ought to be given at least two years' notice.

BIG CLAM BAKE BY ASTORIA ELKS

Elaborate Entertainment at Sea Shore Planned for All the "Hello Bills"

ASTORIA, Ore., July 24.—Astoria lodge of Elks has issued a special invitation to the Grand Lodge of Elks to attend the clam bake which they are to give as a feature of the Astoria centennial pageant on August 11, 12 and 13 next. E. C. Judd, who is also chairman of the regatta committee of the centennial, extended the invitation to the members of the Grand Lodge of Elks when they were in session at Atlantic City, just after they voted to hold the next convention at Portland, Ore.

According to the plans of the clam bake committee, Friday and Saturday will be devoted to attendance at the centennial festivities.

Friday there will be a concert by Elly's band at stadium, Indian war dances at stadium and spectacular sham battle on Coxcomb hill.

Saturday, August 12, there will be a program composed of the Elks' parade and Elks' ceremonies at centennial grounds, a grand military parade, United States Infantry, artillery and Oregon National Guard, and maneuvers and reunion at centennial grounds, followed at night by Elks' pyrotechnical production on the waterfront, destruction of the "ship Tonquin," and championship wrestling matches and boxing exhibitions in the auditorium.

Sunday there will be a big clam bake at Clatsop Beach in the afternoon and in the evening there will be a big bonfire and general jollification with no one but Elks to make up the program.

Reduced rates are in effect for all these days and the Astoria Elks are looking for a 30,000 crowd for their reunion.

MAIL CARRIERS GET PAY INCREASE

Promotions in Postal Department Carry $2,000,000 Salary Raise

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Postmaster General Hitchcock has ordered promotions for postoffice clerks and city letter carriers which carry salary increases of about $2,000,000 a year. Orders also were issued for promotion in the railway mail service which will total $175,000 a year. These increases are in addition to the increases for rural mail carriers totaling $4,000,000 a year, which became effective July 1.

The four great groups of postal employees have received increases of pay aggregating $6,000,000 during the current fiscal year. Postmaster General Hitchcock says the increases will be more than offset by increased efficiency of the employees, and he believes the advances are warranted by the fact that the postoffice is now practically on a self-sustaining basis.

VICTIM OF ACCIDENT SUCCUMBS TO INJURIES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—Eugene Place, the laundry worker, of 1819 1/2 Lyon street, who was run over by an automobile driven by Harold Morse, a demonstrator for the Standard Auto Company, and left dying in the street shortly after midnight June 30, succumbed to his injuries yesterday in the French hospital.

DID ITS WORK.

"The astonishing thing about it is that the platitude did its work. The majority of those who heard the courteous and reasonable word of Nicodemus were ready to drive Jesus back to the carpenter's bench, and if he would not return, then to drive him to the cross; and the best argument advanced against him was that no prophet ever had or could come out of Galilee.

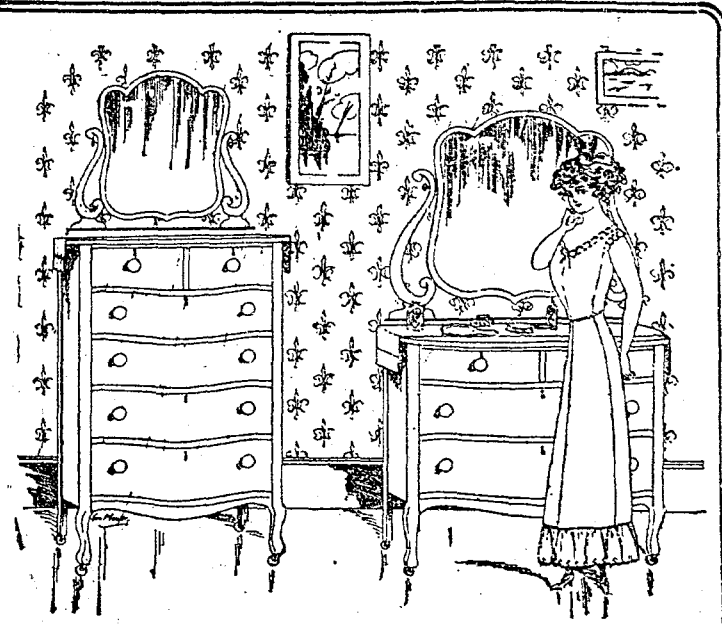

"John Stuart Mill in his essay on Liberty, wrote wisely of the danger of an undisputed idea. Sometimes even an unchallenged truth becomes a menace. Often an unchallenged error masquerading as truth mounts the judgment seat, and truth is crucified between thieves.

"We condemn men to oblivion, and refuse to hear our present prophets because of some mere wail of human speech that has lain so long on the public doorstep that the whole community adopts it into an orphan asylum of supposed wisdom, and the platitude becomes an axiom.

"Many of the prejudices against religion, many of the generalities behind which error hides, rest on fatherless false impressions, on foolish and unproved and unprovable quotations which never were true, and which, if true when first uttered, have had long time in which to grow false.

"Truth must keep itself true by the constant meeting of every reasonable challenge. The religion of Christ is the religion of the open mind."
